MAN KILLED BY OWN BOMB AT PALMER'S HOME IDENTIFIED

RIVER RATES HELD UP FOR WANT OF MORE TERMINALS

Transfer Facilities at Vicksburg and Other Southern Points Needed to Make Shipments to Texas by Water Pay.

RAIL HAULS FROM NEW ORLEANS COSTLY

Acting Director of Inland Waterways of Railroad Administration Tells of Needs to Make Project Pay.

Confirmation of a report printed in the Post-Dispatch Sunday that St. Louis shippers would not now receive the advantage of freight rates by way of the Government River Service to New Orleans, thence to Texas points by rail, was given today by H. S. Noble, acting Director of Inland Waterways of the Railroad Administration, who was in St. Louis on an inspection tour.

St. Louis shippers have been relying upon that rate combination to enable their giving great volumes of freight to the water revival and to obtain rates that would permit them to reach Texas on a parity with New York, which now has a cheap ocean route.

Noble declared that the proposal to ship 113 miles by water to New Orleans and then 550 miles to certain Texas points was an uneconomical substitute for the present straight rail route of between 750 and 800 miles. "It is throwing in 1100 miles of water haul simply for the sake of hauling by water," he said.

Vicksburg Needs Terminals. "Texas rates will be granted to St. Louis shippers by the Railroad Administration, I believe, only when terminals for the transfer from water to rail are established at Baton Rouge or Vicksburg. I am inclined at this time to say Vicksburg. That will shorten the route into a logical one. I do not believe that municipal terminals are obtainable at Vicksburg and I think that it will be up to the river service to provide them. This, I hope, will be done between now and next spring and, when it is done, then the waterways section can demand and obtain the desired combination in favor of St. Louis."

The same condition holds true for Memphis also. As soon as proper terminals for the interchange of freight are established by Memphis, their rates from St. Louis by water Memphis and thence by rail to southeastern states will be forthcoming.

Memphis Now Is at Work. Memphis now is at work on terminals of the desired type. St. Louis shippers always have questioned their ability to furnish capacity loads even for the present river service without water and rail rates to Texas and the Southeast. As is known, a fleet of five times the capacity of the present fleet is being built for operation on the river. Noble said he hoped that the proper terminals at both Memphis and either Vicksburg and Baton Rouge would be completed by the time the new fleet is in full operation.

Noble, who is acting director of Inland Waterways by reason of the extended absence of Director S. A. Tomlinson in Europe, has been director of the New York barge canal since Government control and previous to that was a Great Lakes operator of ships.

What Railroads Have Learned. "I think the railroad operators have learned several things through the period of Government control. One is that there is a serious intention on the part of the Government to give a fair trial to water transportation upon the Mississippi. I believe also they have learned to have a greater respect for the authority of the Government in things pertaining to transportation. But, greatest of all, they have learned to look upon the costs sheets. Heretofore railroads have seized upon all the weight they could get regardless of whether it was remunerative. Now, I believe, they are more inclined to the understanding that there are some classes of freight which will move more easily and cheaply by water than by rail and are inclined to concede that freight to the water."

Railroad men still retain at the

UNUSUAL ACCIDENTS CAUSE DEATHS OF TWO CHILDREN

Boy Chokes on Rubber Ball and Girl Swallows Nicotine Solution Used for Spraying.

Two children, each 6 years old, died from unusual causes yesterday. Edward J. Koob, son of Frank Koob of 2823 Marcus avenue, while playing with a small rubber ball, sucked the rubber, in a lump, into his windpipe, and choked to death while his mother was trying to relieve him. Virginia Nick, daughter of George Nick of 4028 Shenandoah avenue, was visiting the home of her uncle, William Nick, 3656 Folsom avenue, and was found suffering from poisoning. A bottle, which had contained a nicotine solution used in spraying flowers, lay on a table, nearly empty. The child died in an ambulance.

ROOSTER CONDEMNED TO STEW

Owner to Execute Bird That Attacked 3-Year-Old Girl.

A rooster belonging to Mrs. Mattie Miller, 3304 North Ninth street, was condemned to the stew today following its attack on Pearl Hastings, 3 years old, of 3300 North Ninth street, yesterday. Mrs. Miller told police she would serve as executioner.

The rooster took umbrage at some children at play on his sand hill in a lot in the rear of the Hastings home and attacked the girl, knocking her down and pecking her on the face and neck.

The child was taken to the North End Dispensary. The skin was broken in places on her cheek, nose, chin and neck. Mrs. Miller assured the police the rooster would go to its doom today.

MAYOR FAVORS A LARGER FUND FOR RECREATION WORK

Would Prefer to Borrow Money, He Says, Rather Than Discontinue Park Athletics and Concerts.

NOLTE BELIEVES CITY CHARTER FORBIDS IT

Park Commissioner Asserts Appropriation Must Be Increased by $225,000 if Activities Are to Continue.

Mayor Kiel said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he would favor an increase in the Park Department appropriation to such an extent that the swimming pools, athletic fields, golf links and tennis courts, public playgrounds and bath houses, as well as public band concerts, may be kept up this summer on the scale of last season.

Park Commissioner Cunliff said he would inform the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, at a meeting to be held Friday afternoon, that the present appropriation of $340,630 must be increased by an additional $225,000 if the recreational work of the department is not to be dropped. The amount spent in the past year was $266,700. The increase in salaries, which is estimated will add $60,000 a year to the department payroll, was in the force during the last half of the year.

$103,000 in Special Fund.

Besides the $340,630 set aside as the regular department appropriation for the coming year, $103,000 has been appropriated as a special fund, largely for building purposes. Mayor Kiel said St. Louis must be kept to the front in its recreational activities. "If there is not sufficient revenue," he said, "I would rather see the city borrow the money than to drop this work." He said he believed Controller Nolte had taken a wrong attitude in opposing the increase of the appropriation for recreational purposes.

Comptroller Nolte said, when questioned about the matter, that he was opposed to any policy of appropriating money not available, and he believed the city charter forbids such action. He said the city, with a rate of $1.35 on the $100 valuation, had reached the limit of its power of taxation for municipal purposes. He said the telephone and telegraph wires to private ownership, was ordered today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, after the measure had been amended so as to continue existing telephone rates for 60 days after final action by Congress.

The vote of the committee was unanimous.

GERMANS CROSS FRONTIER AND ATTACK POLISH ADVANCE UNIT

Force of 1200 Invaders Repulsed With Heavy Losses, Havas Dispatch States.

PARIS, June 3.—A German detachment, 1200 strong, from East Prussia, crossed the Polish frontier and attacked the Polish advance guard, according to the Havas dispatch from Warsaw. Polish reinforcements were hastily summoned, and counter attacked between Ossowiec and Grajewo. In a short, sharp action, the Germans were repulsed with heavy losses.

Cunliff Explains Uses. Commissioner Cunliff, in reply to this, said that the $240,000 was spent for regular salaries and maintenance. In winter, when the recreation season is over, the department is reduced to a skeleton force.

$90,000,000 WORTH OF WARSHIPS TO BE DESTROYED

Twelve to Be "Junked" or Used for Targets, Having Outlived Usefulness.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Twelve dreadnoughts will be relieved of active duty with the fleet, placed out of commission and eventually broken up for junk or used as targets by more modern vessels under plans now being worked out by the Navy Department. The ships are of the "mixed battery" type and are not considered to be of any value against latest fighting craft.

Four of the battleships, the historic squadron, comprising the Oregon, Indiana, Iowa and Massachusetts, have already been relegated to the scrap heap. The remaining eight, apparently doomed to the same fate, are the Kearsarge, Kentucky, Illinois, Alabama, Wisconsin, Maine, Missouri and Ohio.

The 12 vessels, built between 1893 and 1901, represent a total expenditure for hulls and machinery alone of more than $90,000,000. When placed out of commission they will release for other day approximately 18,000 enlisted men and nearly 400 officers.

The ships long ago outlived their usefulness as combat units in a fighting fleet, although when they were built they were among the most formidable war vessels afloat. All of them were used during the war with Germany as training ships or coast defense units.

NEGRO'S SENTENCE OF 25 YEARS FOR KILLING POLICEMAN UPHELD

Supreme Court Affirms Term Given Adolphus Fuller, Who Shot Isaac A. Kidwell in 1917.

PARIS, June 3.—The Missouri Supreme Court today affirmed the sentence of 25 years' imprisonment imposed by the Circuit Court in St. Louis on Henry Finkelstein for killing Thomas Mulrooney on Twenty-second street, between Pine and Olive streets, Sept. 17, 1915. Finkelstein's defense was that Mulrooney had caused his wife to become estranged from him.

On the first trial Finkelstein was sentenced to life imprisonment. The case was reversed and remanded for a new trial by the Supreme Court on a technicality, and on the second trial the imprisonment was fixed at 10 years.

Finkelstein has been at liberty on a bond for $15,000, signed by his uncle, Abe Slusky, of 3852 Lindell boulevard.

GENERAL STRIKE PUT INTO EFFECT IN VANCOUVER

Action in Sympathy With the Winnipeg Strikers Where Sympathizers Begin to Show Violence.

CLIMAX TO LONG PERIOD OF UNREST

Government Denying Charges, Declares It Is Trying to Curb Food Hoarding and Profiteering.

VANCOUVER, June 3.—A general strike of organized labor in Vancouver in sympathy with the Winnipeg strike went into effect at 11 a. m. today.

Show of Violence Made by Strike Sympathizers.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 3.—At a mass meeting this morning the police's union decided unanimously not to sign the modified terms contained in the ultimatum presented by the Police Commission providing that the police must not participate in a sympathetic strike. A resolution was passed to support constituted authority at all times in maintaining law and order.

Strike sympathizers, who have made three parades to the provincial Parliament since Friday and who yesterday announced a similar demonstration, would be held today, changed their minds shortly before noon and a small parade proceeded to Victoria Park for a mass meeting and several of the leaders went to Parliament to obtain a personal interview with Premier T. C. Norris.

When several hundred of the sympathizers gathered in Market Square this forenoon it was reported that the military authorities were prepared to act if the paraders attempted disorderly tactics.

For the first time since the sympathetic strike was declared, the Labor News today assailed the railway Brotherhoods. The Brotherhoods have formally disapproved the One Big Union movement, which local labor leaders and the Labor News are supporting.

Troops which were ordered to be in readiness yesterday, and held at the Winnipeg Barracks during a parade, which marked the most aggressive activity of union men since the strike began, are on duty again. During the night the city was quiet.

The announcement of Premier Norris that he will not do anything regarding provincial legislation which union men are demanding until the sympathetic strike is called off, after the manner of yesterday, after that he and his cabinet resign on the grounds of "incompetency," and the statement by railroad Brotherhood executives that they have transmitted to the executive Council an offer for settlement which had been received from the heads of Winnipeg's three leading iron works, were important developments yesterday.

Violence by strike sympathizers in a parade marked the eighteenth day of the general strike in Winnipeg. For the first time since the strike began Winnipeg policemen were called into action, and demonstrators who attempted to force their way into the Board of Trade Building were checked. An automobile parked at the curb was smashed.

The general strike in Winnipeg and the demonstrations by labor forces in other cities have come as the climax to national unrest which has been apparent since last fall. It is known that the Dominion Government has been investigating the situation in every province since the first of the year.

Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, and Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, both repelled to charges that the Government was not vigorously trying to curb food hoarding, by declaring that a Federal investigation of alleged food hoarding, speculation and profiteering was in progress.

Government officials, in admitting that food prices are higher than they should be, have charged that labor agitators have used the high cost of living plea as a curtain behind which they constructed a national scheme to obtain complete control of labor in the Dominion by supplanting the present trades council systems in the provinces.

WATCHMAN KILLED BY BOMB AT NEW YORK JUDGE'S HOME

Lower Part of Residence of Member of Sessions Court Wrecked and Persons on Fifth Floor Jarred From Bed.

By Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The explosion of a powerful bomb wrecked a part of the home of Judge Charles C. Nott of General Sessions, at 151 East Sixty-first street, at 12:55 a. m. today, killing Night Patrolman William Boehmer, slightly injured a number of persons asleep in nearby houses, and did property damage estimated at $25,000, in the "Diamond Back" district.

Mrs. Mary Nott, the Judge's wife, who was asleep on the second floor, was thrown from bed but escaped injury except for a severe shaking up. The first floor of her home was so shattered she could not leave her room until firemen cleared a way.

John Bjorkeren, caretaker of the house, his wife and their 7-year-old daughter Agnes, were hurried from their beds on the top floor of the five-story brown-stone house, but were not hurt.

Judge Nott and his children, Frances, 18; Benedict, 13, and Lawrence, 12, have been at the Nott summer home at Black Point, 10 miles east of New London, Conn., since Friday. Mrs. Nott came in Sunday to do some shopping. She had retired about 10 o'clock last night.

Great Destructive Powers. That the bomb placed in Judge Nott's home was part of the nationwide plot was proved early today, several hours after the explosion, by the discovery in the arway of Nos. 153 and 165 East Fifty-first street of several of the pink circulars signed "The Anarchist Fighters," similar to those found near Attorney-General Palmer's home in Washington.

The bomb, in the opinion of Inspector Egan of the Bureau of Combustibles, was one of the largest ever made by dynamiters in America. He based his statement entirely on the visible destruction. Early this morning the debris in front of the Nott residence was carefully cleared by Egan's orders and under his supervision. He hoped to find some part of the bomb. Not a trace of it was seen.

"The bomb used here," said Egan, "was plainly of the time or clock variety. All that was contained at least 25 pounds of dynamite. I should say it was of what is known to the police as 'Italian' make, like that which, on July 1, 1915, destroyed an entire building at Lexington avenue and 102d street while the anarchists were still at work. Several of them were killed by the premature explosion."

"The bomb used at Judge Nott's at the Lexington avenue home was, with one exception, the largest we know of. The biggest of all was the 200-pound clock bomb found in the coal bunkers of a Cunarder during the war."

Watchman Killed. One theory is that the bomb had a time fuse and that, immediately after lighting it the person who took it there was observed by Boehmer, who, for 18 years, the War Camp Community Service, were awakened by windows crashing in.

Immediately following the explosion and the receipt of news dispatches telling of similar outrages in other cities, the police detailed strong forces to guard the homes of prominent men in New York. Hundreds of special officers were pressed into service on short notice.

ANARCHISTS' PLOT SAID TO CENTER IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphian Blown to Pieces When He Stubs Toe Going to Place Explosive and Attorney-General's Residence in Fashionable Quarter Is Damaged.

BOMBS AT JUDGES' HOMES ELSEWHERE

Explosions in Seven Cities Believed to Be Connected—Extra Guards Put on at Capitol and Other Places in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Washington police inspectors believed today they had identified the man who was blown to pieces last night when attempting to plant a bomb at the residence of Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer, as an anarchist of Philadelphia. They also said they were confident a nation-wide plot had been laid in that city.

Widespread bomb explosions last night in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Paterson, N. J., apparently a sequel to the May day outrages, when infernal machines were mailed broadcast from New York to Government officials and other men prominent in public life, are believed by officials to be another move in an anarchist movement for the overthrow of organized government. A pamphlet found at the home of Attorney-General Palmer, which was badly damaged by the bomb, was headed "The Anarchist Fighters," and gave warning that a "time has come when the social question's solution can be delayed no longer; class war is on and cannot cease, but with a complete victory for the international proletariat."

Arrived in Capital Last Night. A blood-stained card of identification checked found in front of Palmer's residence early today, showed that the anarchist arrived in Washington at 10:30 o'clock last night from Philadelphia. He went directly from the Union Station to the Palmer house and only a few minutes before the explosion he was seen alighting from a street car a few blocks away by C. S. Briggs of Merion.

The anarchist apparently was of Italian birth or parentage. His scalp, found by the police at daylight, had upon it hair that was dark and curly, including in the hair of tattered and scorched fragments of clothing and articles belonging to the man was a much-thumbed Italian-American dictionary, indicating its owner knew little of English. By a strange freak of the explosion the man's hat remained intact. On the sweatband was inscribed the name of "Deluca Bros., Hatters, 919 South Eighth street, Philadelphia."

The head of the anarchist was found on the roof of a house more than a block away from the scene of the explosion, and taken down by firemen, who were searching the roof tops for possible evidence. Representative Mansfield of Texas was passing near by when the bomb exploded. Flying fragments of the anarchist struck him, and left crimson spots in the light summer suit he was wearing.

In Fashionable Neighborhood. The neighborhood in which the explosion occurred is one of the most fashionable in Washington. Two doors away lives Senator Swanson of Virginia. Directly opposite lives Rear Admiral Theodore F. Jewell. The home of Helmer H. Bryn, Norwegian Minister to the United States, and Admiral Jewell and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt live a short distance away. Residences in the entire block were damaged by the explosion. Windows were shattered and the fronts of some of the houses were nicked by pieces of flying concrete. Parts of the anarchist were blown through some of the windows. Several occupants of the nearby houses, including the home of the Norwegian Minister, were thrown from their beds by the force of the explosion.

Additional precautions were taken by the police today to safeguard public men in Washington. Many homes and public buildings were being guarded. At the Capitol extra police were placed on duty and the rule against bringing packages of any sort into the Capitol and the House and Senate office buildings was rigidly enforced. The same rule was being applied in other Government buildings.

Attorney-General Palmer did not go to his office today and his associates refused to disclose where he and Mrs. Palmer, who left their home after the explosion last night, had taken up their new residence.

All available men of the Bureau of Investigation have been assigned to the case.

Palmer and other members of the family were at home, but escaped injury, though the front of the residence almost collapsed with the force of the explosion. The family was on the second floor preparatory to retiring at the time.

So thoroughly was the body of the man killed here scattered that surgeons had difficulty in ascertaining whether one or two persons had been involved. Pieces of two separate firearms also were found, one an automatic pistol and the other a revolver. The suit case was of cheap construction.

Anarchist Stabbed His Toe.—Detectives are positive that the stabbing of the anarchist's toe on a small concrete coping six feet from the front door of Attorney-General Palmer's house was solely responsible for the bomb place himself being blown to bits inside of the house and, possibly, its occupants.

The explosion blew out a section of the coping and dug a hole in the earth under it. The anarchist apparently was approaching the door from an angle and in the darkness failed to notice the low coping. When his toe met it, he tripped, the detectives believe, and the infernal machine he was carrying went off. Parts of the man were plastered on houses across the street.

Thousands today visited the street in which is the Attorney-General's residence. The house itself and the street in front were being carefully guarded and scores of Federal and police detectives were busy searching for and finding bits of clothing and other articles which were flung to the street by the explosion. From an examination of the fragments of the bomb place it appeared he was a swarthy man with dark hair and of slender build. He wore a collar of a well-known make upon which was a laundry mark. From this the detectives hope to learn much. His suit, judging from the pieces found, was black with a green stripe. The man wore winter underclothing, tan hosiery and a white shirt of poor quality with green and yellow stripes. Fragments of papers which the man apparently had been carrying in his pockets, as well as the parts of two pistols, also were found.

Cordite May Have Been Used.—Acid fumes hung in the atmosphere and penetrated all the houses on the same block as the Palmer residence for an hour after the explosion. Lieut. S. J. Magee, U. S. A., an authority on high explosives, who happened to be in the neighborhood at the time, declared his belief that the bomb was made of cordite, one of the most powerful explosives known. Experts from the Bureau of Mines and the War Department began an examination of all the articles found.

Shabby Clothing Worn.—Besides tearing away the residence front, the explosion jolted out of place the stone steps leading up to the first-floor level. Remnants of shabby clothing were found. The man killed were scattered, sections being found over a radius of 100 feet and plastered on an automobile which happened to be passing at the moment.

Streets near the Palmer home were cleared with difficulty by police and soldiers pressed into service. One or two persons near the spot claimed to have heard two explosions, but most of the people reported only one. It had, however, terrific force. Members of Attorney-General Palmer's family, while shocked, the police said, Palmer said he could assign no reason for the attempt upon his life. One of the bombs discovered in the New York Postoffice in the May day plot was addressed to the Attorney-General.

Two Deaths Reported.—Although apparently intended to do greater damage, the latest bomb explosion, from a standpoint of loss of life, appeared to have been little more successful than those of May.

Fatalities, as reported today, were confined to the two men killed at the Palmer home and to New York, where one person was killed.

As in the May day attempts, the bomb plot last night, the police, in a majority of cases, against public officials in various cities and men who have been active in suppression of organized lawlessness. As there was little difference in the time between the explosions with the exception of that in Washington, the police and Government agents believe the instruments of destruction were to be timed to explode at about the same hour.

Copies of the pamphlet bearing the caption "Plain Talk" are in possession of the police and Department of Justice officials and may possibly furnish the only clue to the identity of the plotters. Printed on what likely was intended to be red paper, the pamphlets bear no distinguishing marks, however, and might easily have been printed in any small print shop.

Palmer has been active in urging anti-Bolshevism measure and the attack on him as well as on various court judges and officials representative of law and order are obvious to the authorities, but Government agents were at a loss to understand the attempted destruction of a church.

Secret service agents studied intently reports received here from other cities and when it was found that the handbills found in Washington corresponded textually with those picked up in Boston they have been taken to the city where they were found, it was confirmed, they said.

Leaders in both the House and Senate said today they were ready to act immediately in passing any legislation necessary to deal with acts of violence to overthrow the Government.

Text of Chancellor Renner's Speech on Receiving the Austrian Peace Terms

By the Associated Press. ST. GERMAIN, France, June 3.—Upon receiving the treaty from the allies here yesterday, Dr. Karl Renner, chairman of the Austrian delegation, outlined briefly the history of the establishment of the German republic and declared it had no relation with the former Hapsburg empire. He spoke as follows:

"For a long time the people of Germany have been waiting in distress for this present day to come, which shall relieve the tension caused by the uncertainty as to that people's future state. We were longer for the hour of release because it was to render peace at last to our hard tried country, and to offer us an opportunity to proclaim before this illustrious tribunal, the world's highest authority, what our country is and what the conditions are under which we may hope to organize the possibilities for the existence of an independent commonwealth."

"The Danube monarchy against which the allied and associated powers have waged war and with which they have concluded an armistice has ceased to exist. Since January 1, 1918, may be considered the day of its death. From this day on there was no monarchy any more nor a big power over which he could hold his sway. There was no more the fatal dualism, neither an Austrian nor a Hungarian Government; no army or any other recognized institution vested with public power."

States Sprang Up Overnight.—"There remained only eight nationalities deprived of any public organization and overnight they created their own parliaments, their own governments and their own armies; in short, their own independent states. In the same way of our mountainous country, a new republic, too, has sprung into life. Consequently, she can no more than the former be considered the successor of the late monarchy. From this day on there is the fundamental contradiction under which we are laboring the most and which is waiting to be cleared before this high assembly."

"On the one hand no one could, from the judicial statement rendered by the chairman of this conference, reason that a modification of the political form of government or a change of its leading persons would suffice to release a nation from assumed obligations. This entails the conclusion that all the territories of the ancient monarchy and their peoples could be made responsible for the consequences of the war which they were forced upon them all by their former Governments."

"This is weighing upon us, as upon all the other nationalities established on the territory of the former Austro-Hungarian monarchy, a portion of the dreadful inheritance left us by the fallen empire, the inheritance of war, the inheritance of exhaustion and the inheritance of the most numerous economic obligations."

"But the new republic has freed herself from all these imperialistic aspirations which have become so fatal to the existence of the ancient monarchy. She has rid herself once and forever of all the reactionary traditions which had turned the former monarchy into a prison for its people. She is, alas, the unfortunate victim of that horrible crime of 1914—a crime committed by the former Government, however, and not by the people."

"On the other hand, all the succeeding states have in the light of international law come into existence after the cessation of hostilities only. The German-Austrian republic, in its present shape, has never declared war, never carried on a war, in relation with the Western powers, never had the position of a warring power from an international point of view, and there could be no doubt as to the fact that our republic never was at war with the new national states."

Setting Up the Estate.—"On the contrary, in Vienna various commissions appointed by the succeeding states have met to settle the estate left by the late empire and to divide in mutual agreement among themselves all the rights and assets of this estate. Between them and us it is not a question of making peace, but of liquidating the former participation in the future relations under the intervention and guarantee of the powers, for which we pay."

"Nevertheless, these succeeding states, meeting face to face in Paris, are playing a game of hide-and-seek in regard to their obligations assumed in the past. We expect to eliminate this contradiction at the peace conference. I reserve to myself the opportunity of drawing like conclusions from this contradiction later on."

"We are before you as one of the parts of the vanquished and fallen empire. We assume our portion of the liabilities growing out of the war, our relations to the allied powers, and we are well aware of the fact that our fate is resting in your hands."

"We hope and believe that the conference of the world shall not deny to our people our right of self-determination, which the associated powers have always proclaimed to be the very aim of their war waged against the Hapsburg and the Hohenzollern monarchies, a right which our people, confiding in the principles recognized by the allied powers, have adopted as a fundamental basis of their new constitution."

Trusts to Common Sense.—"We trust that the world's common sense will not have in view nor will permit our economic ruin. The destruction of the economic unit of the monarchy, the separation of our mountainous country from all its national resources, has condemned us, these last six months, to privations which are far exceeding the sufferings endured in war time. It was only due to the generous relief action organized by Mr. Hoover, on resolutions passed by the allied powers, that we have been saved from downright starvation, but in all these times of distress our Government, in a manner deserving of admiration, shown discipline, patient endurance and good judgment."

"Our new republic did not stain her revolution with blood and she has not in the decisions of this conference, she even has abstained from any military action against her neighbors, although the latter have occupied two-fifths of her territory. She has proved to be a mainstay of peaceful and organized social development in Central Europe."

"We know that we had to receive peace from your hands, but we are firmly resolved conscientiously to weigh each and every proposition laid before us and any advice offered by you to us."

"We shall, above all, make it a point thoroughly to inform you of the conditions prevailing in our country and to enlighten you regarding the primary exigencies of our people. If you hereby have had the opportunity to hear, with a few exceptions only, the voice of our neighbors, we now invoke your hearing, for you, the arbiters of a great world, will have to decide the fate of our small world."

also, and it is only just and right that arbiters should hear both parties.

"We pray for a decision which will insure for all four national political and economic existence."

Renner Speaks in French.—"No trace of the arrogant spirit with which Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German delegation, attempted at Versailles to arrogate to himself the position of responsible for the war and demanded participation in the negotiations on equal terms marked the speech of Dr. Renner. The Austrian plenipotentiary, speaking in French, did not seek to extenuate the guilt of the former Austro-Hungarian Government for 'the horrible crime of 1914.'"

The tone of his speech evidently made the most favorable impression on the assembled plenipotentiaries. President Wilson listened with the closest attention. The delegates of England, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia alone evinced discontent at those parts of the speech in which the Austrian chief by implication attempted to assign to them a proportion of the guilt of the war. It was evident, however, that Dr. Renner had been carefully studying the proceedings of the interallied conference and he adapted his utterances to the situation."

Dr. Renner read his speech through to the end without attempt at oratorical embellishment, though speaking with deep earnestness and sincerity."

The English translator rose as the Austrian finished and furnished his version to which President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and Henry White listened closely. The attention of the assembly wavered as the proceedings passed into Italian. This version was listened to only by the Italian delegates, many of the other representatives indulging in a subdued discussion of the Austrian plenipotentiary's thesis."

The Austrian delegates were surprised and seemingly by no means pleased at the translation of Dr. Renner's speech into Italian. They said Dr. Renner spoke in French to simplify the proceedings. Had they known that it was intended to give the Italian version they would have insisted upon their prerogative of interpretation."

Two Mishaps at Ceremony.—The mishap of a photographer, who in the midst of Dr. Renner's speech fell with a crash of shattered camera, standing and motioned his colleagues to their places. The entire assembly, which had risen on the entry of the Austrians, seated itself. M. Clemenceau alone remained standing and with scarce an instant's pause the session started. M. Clemenceau refrained from any political allusion in his short speech; he merely outlined the procedure of the negotiations and explained that only part of the treaty was ready. He asked that any replies or observations to such parts of the treaty as were laid before the Austrians be submitted in writing within 15 days.

The French official who attempted to address the delegations of the republic of German Austria, the plenipotentiary of the German republic, blundered in the apparent recognition of the Germanic attributes of the new republic corrected. The translator was now so nervous that presently he was caught uttering a phrase which their replies must be verbal instead of written."

directed against United States Disarmament. Dr. H. H. Thompson and D. W. Sibray, chief inspector of the Bureau of Immigration. That the explosions were in connection with a plot of radical agitators to kill men of the hands of the police, as indicated in the fact that the local authorities found handbills signed by "The Anarchistic fighters" and similar to those discovered in Washington."

The bombs in each instance were placed on the porches of residences near the homes of the public officials, and police authorities today expressed the opinion that the terrorists made mistakes in placing the bombs in the living rooms. The first explosion occurred next door to Judge Thompson's home. It wrecked one house and damaged other residences, including that of the jurist."

Shortly after this outrage, a bomb was exploded in the West End District on the porch of a house directly across the street from Inspector Sibray's home. Sibray was thrown from his bed by the force of the explosion, which was heard in nearby residences. No one was injured in either instance."

Up to 10 a. m. today 15 men, mostly Russians, had been arrested. Edgar Sibray, special agent in charge of the Department of Justice, announced that many others would be apprehended before tonight."

RECTOR AND HOME OF PHILADELPHIA JEWELER DAMAGED.—By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Federal and local authorities today are investigating the bomb explosions which late last night badly damaged the rectory of a Catholic church and the residence of a jeweler in West Philadelphia. Three persons were injured, one of them seriously, by the explosions, which occurred shortly before midnight and only a few minutes apart. One man has been arrested.

Two men in a motor car are said by the police to have hurled two bombs at the rectory, both of which exploded. The first explosion, which was heard in the front of the building and shattered the windows in the churches next door. Several priests were in the rectory at the time, but none of them was injured. A woman, who was passing the church, was slightly hurt."

First reports were that the bomb which wrecked the home of Louis Jagielsky, a jeweler, was also hurled from an automobile, but upon investigation it was found that the bomb was planted in a fireplace in the living room. The interior of the house was wrecked and Jagielsky's aged grandmother, who was sleeping on the second floor, was seriously injured. Jagielsky said he had no enemies and was at a loss to understand why his house should be selected for destruction."

All of the bombs apparently were connected to explode by a common wire. Pieces of the detonators were found and the police said they were similar to those used several months ago in an attempt to blow up the homes of Justice and the speaker of the State Supreme Court, Judge Albert F. Hayden in the Roxbury district, and that of State Representative Leland Powers in Newtonville, tended to confirm the first opinion of the police that the outrages were part of a national plot.

Pamphlets entitled "Plain Words" were found scattered outside the Hayden house and also in the wreckage. These were identical in language with those found at the home of Attorney-General Palmer in Washington.

State Chemist Walter Wedger, who visited the scene of the explosions, today expressed the opinion that the fuse bomb was placed in the Hayden residence rather than a clock bomb. He said the odor of the fuse could be distinguished in the cellar when the police arrived. He found in the cellar a fragment of metal pipe which was apparently part of the bomb. No one was in the Hayden residence. Judge Hayden decided the recent Roxbury riot cases."

The nature of the bomb which was used at the Powers residence was not so evident, but the police were inclined to think a stick of dynamite was thrown there. Powers with his family was on the second floor and no one was injured.

FATE OF PROHIBITION RESTS WITH PALMER

Attorney-General May Advise President That Demobilization Proclamation Is Warranted.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, June 3.—The fate of war-time prohibition rests today with Attorney-General Palmer. If he advises the President on his return that demobilization has proceeded to such a point as to justify a proclamation of its completion, it is assured that the proclamation will be forthcoming.

The President's recent message to Congress stating that "demobilization of the military forces of the country has progressed to such a point that it seems to be entirely safe now to remove the ban upon the manufacture and sale of wines and beers" having produced no congressional effect, the next logical step is the exercise of the discretion vested in the President by the prohibition act. Just as he asked his advisers for opinion on the Attorney-General when he wanted to know if he had the power to terminate the law, it is surmised that he has made a similar request for advice as to his authority to declare demobilization complete.

Secretary Baker's statement yesterday before a congressional committee that the American army with the exception of the troops of occupation would be back in this country by the end of July indicates the imminence of a decision.

In anticipation of the presidential request for a ruling, there has been filed with the Attorney-General a brief setting forth the wet side of the argument and pointing out that when demobilization is declared, the question of organized labor at the first of the year for the purposes of the whole act is clearly within the President's authority to decide. Everyone knows that the federal prohibition act has been and is being repealed by the act of July 1, long after the activities meant to be fostered by the prohibition act have themselves ceased to be."

Speaking as the representative of 38 miscellaneous trades, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, J. J. Manning said he could not conceive of intelligent and sincere men taking up the "no beer, no wine" issue, but he could conceive of their indignation at the Government's refusal to let them have something they wanted that was not harmful.

The Anti-Social League said they would file briefs and ask to be heard later.

suspicious printed matter found in the motor car stolen by the men who threw the bombs was merely literature issued by a reputable beneficial association of the owner of the stolen car was a member.

Louis Jagielsky, whose residence was bombed, said today he believed the attack was a misapprehension on the part of the bombers. The police theory is that after the attack on the church the men hurrying from the scene in an automobile found themselves in possession of a surplus bomb they must get rid of and that they threw it away at random, Jagielsky being the victim.

BOMB TEARS OUT WALL OF HOME OF CLEVELAND MAYOR

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, O., June 3.—Police of Cleveland, Columbus and other cities today are searching for two men who are believed to have planted a bomb at the home of Mayor Harry L. Davis last night. The house was damaged, but no one was injured.

The bomb, which is believed to have been heavily charged with dynamite, was planted under a cellar window, and, according to the police, was a time bomb. Pieces found indicate that it was made of brass pipe. The explosion tore out practically the entire north side of the house. The bomb was planted in the living room. The interior of the house was wrecked and Jagielsky's aged grandmother, who was sleeping on the second floor, was seriously injured. Jagielsky said he had no enemies and was at a loss to understand why his house should be selected for destruction."

TEXT OF HANDBILLS FOUND IN WASHINGTON

"Anarchistic Fighters" Speak of "World-Wide Proletarian Revolution."

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The handbills found near the scene of the bomb explosion at Attorney-General Palmer's home bore the title "Plain Words," and read as follows:

"The powers that be make no secret of their will to stop here in America the world-wide spread of revolution. The powers that be must reckon that they will have to accept the fight they have provoked."

"The time has come when the social question's solution can be delayed no longer. War is on and cannot cease but with a complete victory for the international proletariat."

"The challenge is an old one, oh 'democratic' lords of the autocratic republic. We have been dreaming of freedom, we have talked liberty. We have inspired to a better world, and you jailed us, you clubbed us, you deported us, you murdered us whenever you could."

"Now that the great war, waged to replenish your purses and build a pedestal to your saints is over, nothing better can you do to protect your stolen millions and your usurped power than to direct all the power of the murderous institutions you created for your exclusive defense against the working multitudes rising to a more human conception of life."

"The jails, the dungeons you reared to bury all protesting voices are now replenished with languishing conscientious workers and never satisfied, you increase their number every day."

"It is history of yesterday that your own men were shooting and murdering unarmed masses by the wholesale; it has been the history of every day in your regime, and now all prospects are even worse."

"Do not expect us to sit down and pray and cry 'peace' and 'order,' nothing and mean to stick to our war duties. We know that all you do for your defense as a class; we know also that the proletariat has the same right to protest against the oppression of their press has been suffocated, their mouths muted, we mean to speak for them, the voice of dynamite, through the mouth of guns."

"We are not many, though perhaps more than you dream of, but are all determined to fight to the last nail not a human remnant buried in your bastilles, till not a hostage of the working class is left to the tortures of your police system, and will never rest till your fall is complete, and the laboring masses have possession of all that rightly belongs to them."

"There will have to be bloodshed; we will not dodge; there will have to be murder; we will not flinch; necessary; there will have to be destruction; we will destroy to rid the world of your tyrannical institutions."

"Ready to Do Anything."—"We are ready to do anything and everything to suppress the capitalist class just as you are ready to do anything and everything to suppress the proletarian revolution."

"Our mutual position is pretty clear. What has been done by us so far is only a warning that we are friends of popular liberties still living. Only now we are getting into the fight; and you will have a chance to see what liberty-loving people can do."

"Do not seek to believe that we are the Germans or the devil's paid agents. You know well we are class conscious men with strong determination and no vulgar liability. And never hope that your cops and your hounds will ever succeed in ridding the country of the anarchistic seeds that pulses in our veins. We know how we stand with you and know how to take care of ourselves."

STRIKE IN U. S. AREA AGAINST NEW REPUBLIC

Demonstration Opposed to Rhennish Movement Stopped in Few Hours.

By the Associated Press. COBLENZ, June 3.—A general strike throughout the American occupied areas was declared by the Germans at 1 o'clock yesterday as a protest against the reported launching of the Rhennish republic at Wiesbaden. It was very brief, however, being only four hours in duration, the workmen returning to their homes at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, after being warned of the consequences by the American military authorities. The principal strikers were the railway employees and the street car workers at Treves and Coblenz.

When the news of the strike became known, the Americans sent word to the labor leaders that, unless the Germans returned to work by 1 o'clock, the leaders and all the other strikers would be deported into sections of Germany unoccupied by American forces. The Interallied Railway Commission reported later that all the workers had returned to their jobs.

Newspapers in Coblenz printed stories denying the birth of the German republic at Wiesbaden and asserting that the report was an effort on the part of certain Germans to mislead the population of the Rhennish lands. By order of the American authorities, the Coblenz Volks Zeitung has been suspended for two days for publishing an article asserting the French had a hand in the movement.

Telegrams intimating recognition of the Rhennish republic reported to be declared yesterday, sent to commanders of the armies of occupation along the Rhine. They bear the signature of Dr. Dorton, said to have been named President of the new republic, but the officials of the American Third Army have not received any official notification of any such action by the new Government."

Dr. Dorton asserts that delegates of Rhennish Prussia, Old Nassau, Rhennish Hesse and the Palatinate, Mayence and the Wiesbaden, had declared the autonomy of the Rhennish republic from June 1. After declaring the Rhennish republic is willing to accept the terms of the telegram states that the people of the Rhennish lands have no desire to escape their war obligations as far as reparations are concerned, and that they are seeking recognition at a peace conference. The identity of Dr. Dorton is unknown to Americans here.

The Americans are co-operating with the British and have adopted an attitude of maintaining public order and taking any action necessary against demonstrations of any order within the occupied areas. No orders to the contrary had been received from Gen. Pershing's headquarters at Chaumont or from Paris regarding the American policy to establish of a Rhennish republic.

The facts regarding the attempt to launch the republic are in the hands of the American and British authorities, but the circumstances are so complicated that officers have decided to wait for further news before they take any action. The identity of Dr. Dorton is unknown to Americans here.

The Americans say there are no indications that the Germans generally desire a republic and attribute the movement to a handful of intrigues from Gen. Pershing's headquarters at Chaumont or from Paris regarding the American policy to establish of a Rhennish republic.

CHANGES IN GERMAN TREATY CONSIDERED

Council of Four Discusses Alteration of Territorial and Financial Terms.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, June 3.—Two changes in the German peace terms, one territorial and the other financial, are being considered by the Council of Four, it became known today.

The financial question is the possibility of the acceptance of the German proposal to pay an indemnity of 100,000,000,000 marks, which would involve dissolution of the allied financial commission to which the Germans strongly object. It is understood that this proposal has strong support in certain quarters.

The second proposal is for a plebiscite in Silesia in order to guarantee to Germany a coal supply from the Silesian mines.

President Wilson met the American experts from Hotel De Crillon this morning and discussed with them the question of the replies to be made to the German notes on reparations and the economic phases of the treaty. These experts later developed into a general conference of the full American delegation over the German counter proposals.

Brigadier-General George H. Harries, the chief American military adviser regarding German affairs, arrived in Paris today from Berlin. It is believed that his visit is for consultation regarding the military measures to be taken in the event of a German refusal to sign the peace treaty.

Premier Clemenceau heretofore has opposed any modifications in the peace terms, while Premier Lloyd George is understood to favor and approve a German refusal to sign the peace treaty.

Sweden and Denmark have notified the plenipotentiaries that they will not join in a blockade of Germany in the event of a German refusal to sign the peace treaty. They state that a blockade could not be maintained without their violating their neutrality.

Wed in Airplane, Couple Plan Aerial Honeymoon

LIEUT. ROBERT W. MEADE and HIS BRIDE

Lieut. R. W. Meade and Bride, Married at Texas Flying Field, Here En Route to Washington

Lieut. Robert W. Meade and his bride, who were "married on the fly" at Ellington Field, near Houston, Tex., Saturday afternoon, "tipped in" at the Post-Dispatch yesterday on their way home to see the folks, and described how it felt to be married more than 2000 feet off the ground. Each said the sensation was "great."

"It was the nearest I ever have been to heaven," the bride said. The next plan they have is to get permission from the War Department to take an aerial honeymoon trip through the country, incidentally stimulating enlistments in the air service.

So far as is known, they are the first couple in the world to be married in an airplane. The ceremony was performed in a giant Handley-Page bombing machine, carrying 12 persons, including a priest, a band leader, and two "movie" men, who filmed the ceremony, and who worked it into a "thriller" that is being produced by one of the larger companies.

The idea first occurred to Lieut. Meade when the big plane arrived at the field two months ago, he said, and he wrote about it to his fiancée, Miss Marjorie Dumont, who quickly agreed to his plan.

When she left her home in Yorkville, Ind., recently, for Houston, her parents suspected a wedding was in prospect, but had no intimation of the unusual plans. The Associated Press dispatch in Sunday's papers, describing the ceremony.

"Scared at first," says Mrs. Meade. "I admit I was scared when we started up," Mrs. Meade said yesterday. "Bob had told me so often about the awful things that would happen if I ever went up in an airplane. But that soon wore off, and we were so many of us that it didn't seem like anything could happen. It was comforting to have such a crowd along. The worst thing was that it almost blew us out."

As a matter of fact, the noise of the motors made it impossible to hear the chaplain, or for him to hear their responses. The ceremony lasted several minutes, and was so familiar with it that each could read the others' lips.

Chaplain Lieut. J. E. Rees officiated, and Lieutenant-Colonel L. W. McIntosh was along to give away the bride. Another aviator acted as best man, and Mrs. Laura Gray was matron of honor, she having introduced the couple more than two years ago.

The bridal party occupied the large rear cockpit, behind the wings. Lieut. E. W. Kilgore, who was the first aerial mail carrier between Washington and New York, was the pilot, and sat in the front cockpit. Two mechanics, two publicity men and the two camera men also were "up front," the Handley-Page having two cockpits in the nose of the fuselage.

Came Down Too Soon to Suit Her. "The machine was so big, I didn't even know when we left the ground, and I hadn't the slightest idea of the altitude," Mrs. Meade related yesterday. "The most noticeable thing was the noise and the wind. The ride was smooth, though."

"When we had been up a few minutes, the chaplain began the ceremony, and it didn't take long. By that time the 'scarsiness' had gone, and I wanted to ride around a while longer, but they came down in a little while."

"It certainly is a great sensation. I would tell every girl who really wants to enjoy her wedding, to be married in an airplane. She turned to the bridegroom and jokingly remarked:

"The next time I am married, I intend to have it done the very same way. It's the only real modern method."

The fact that the motors were behaving very badly was not known to any of the passengers except Lieut. Meade, the pilot, and the mechanics, or that it was doubtful whether the machine could even leave the ground. The ceremony was planned to reach an altitude of 2000 feet, a similar time to perform the ceremony, and then the machine circled the field for 20 minutes before landing. "Sun" Flying Followed.

Following that, Lieut. Meade strapped his bride into a De Havilland two-seater, and took her for an hour's joyride. "She liked to fly so well, I decided to give her a taste of real flying," he told the reporter. "I side-slipped, did wing-overs, barrel rolls, spirals and nearly everything but loops. And I didn't mind it a bit," the bride put in. "I really wasn't as much afraid then as I was in the big plane, because the little cockpit was so much cozier. Besides, I didn't know what was going on half the time. I could hardly tell whether we were upside down, or not."

Lieut. Meade is 5 feet 2 inches tall, and is known to his comrades as "Side-slipping Shorty," due to the fact that his difficulty in reaching the controls with his short legs often caused him to side-slip when making landings.

He was repeatedly refused a commission in the army because of his stature, but finally won one last November by the novel expedient of fastening wood blocks to the bottom of his shoes, thus enabling him to reach the controls. He formerly was a professional motorcycle racer, and made a cross-country trip in 1914 from Los Angeles to Boston in 14 days on a motorcycle.

Lieut. Meade is 30 years old, and his bride is 23. They are agreed that he will remain in the air service of the regular army, and also are agreed that the War Department would show good judgment in granting them permission to make that aerial honeymoon recruiting tour.

MRS. GHIO'S SUIT TO MODIFY WILL OF HUSBAND DISMISSED

Judge Holds That Terms of Document Prevent Sale of Assets to Assist Her.

The suit of Mrs. Rebecca M. Ghio, asking that the will of her husband, James C. Ghio, be construed so that she receive an allowance to maintain her in fitting station was dismissed yesterday by Circuit Judge Klenz.

Her petition was resisted by the St. Louis Union Trust Co., trustees under the will, which provided that the widow was to have all of the net income, but that the principal of the estate was to remain in trust until after her death and ultimately was to be distributed among grandchildren.

She contended that the will was made for more than two years before she had received any income. The trustee answered that there had been no "net income" in this period, all of the revenue being required to pay legitimate expenses.

Mrs. Ghio said that during the life of her husband he spent $2000 a month to maintain their country place, "Tranquilla." In St. Louis she asked that some of the principal of the estate, consisting mostly of realty, which at one time was estimated at $100,000, be sold and that she be awarded the proceeds for her maintenance. Her attorney argued that it could not have been Ghio's intent that his life's property should be deprived in order that his vast estate be conserved for the benefit of his grandchildren.

Judge Klenz held that under the terms of the will he had no right to order a sale of assets.

ASKS COURT FOR RECOGNITION AS C. R. JUDGE'S WIDOW

Nurse, Giving Name of "Mrs. Kathryn Ogle Judge," Files
Petition for Dower Rights in Druggist's Estate.

HE WAS SUPPOSED TO BE A BACHELOR

Personal Property Amounting to About $400,000 Involved—Other Litigation Already in Progress.

A woman giving her name as "Mrs. Kathryn Ogle Judge" yesterday filed a petition in the Probate Court asking that she be officially recognized as the widow of Charles R. Judge, president of the Judge & Dolph Drug Co., who died April 27, 1918, and who was supposed to have been a bachelor.

The petitioner is a nurse at the Anti-Narcotic Sanitarium, Garrison and Washington avenues. Efforts to see her there today were unsuccessful. A nurse said that a Miss Kathryn Ogle and her mother were employed there, but their home address was not known. She was said to be on night duty, and was not at the sanitarium in the daytime.

Asks for Half of Estate. In her petition she asks the court to award her a dower right, consisting of half of Judge's estate, and to give her a year's allowance on which to live while the estate is being divided. She does not set forth the circumstances on which she bases her assertion that she is Judge's widow. Her attorney, William McNamee, refused to give details as to the grounds for filing the petition. He said his client was about 40 years old.

The inventory of Judge's personal estate showed personal property valued at about $400,000. He had given no indication that he had direct heirs. I could hardly tell whether I could inherit his property.

Division Shown in Will. He left two-thirds of his estate to his sister, Eva Viola Judge; two-tenths to his nephew, Charles R. Judge; one-tenth to his half-brother, Frank E. Judge; two-tenths to his cousin, Theodore Read, and three-tenths to his brother, Harry Frederick Judge.

After the will was made Harry French Judge died in a codicil the bequest to him was revoked and out of his share two-tenths of the estate was left to the Eddy Realty and Investment Co., $5000 to Judge's blind uncle, Willie Judge of Columbia, Mo., and $5000 of stock in the Judge & Dolph Drug Co. to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jordan.

The 100 shares of stock in the St. Louis Toilet Supply Co. were left to H. Worthington Eddy, who was named as executor of the will. In the same codicil Judge revoked the two-tenths bequest to his nephew, Charles R. Judge, and put it in trust with Eddy, to be turned over to the nephew when he reaches the age of 31.

Mrs. Emma Judge, mother of this nephew, filed a suit contesting the will Feb. 26 last. Her petition showed that her son was 14 years old. Her petition alleged that Judge was not of sound mind when he made the codicil and that he was unduly influenced by Eddy.

UNION ELECTRIC MUST PAY BOY OF 14 $35,000 DAMAGES

Supreme Court Affirms One of Largest Award on Record in Injuries From Live Wire.

A Circuit Court judgment of $35,000 personal damages awarded to Prosper H. Meeker, 14 years old, for injuries sustained by him while working on the Union Electric Light and Power Co., for injuries suffered from a live wire June 15, 1915, has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of Missouri. The case is one of the latest of its kind on record in the Supreme Court.

The accident occurred in the rear of 6237 Magnolia avenue, when the boy and his playmate were running through an alley on their way to school. The wire was dangling from a tree and he ran against it. The suit alleged that he lost all the fingers of his right hand, part of his left arm, the muscles of both arms and suffered paralysis of his left side. His mother, Mrs. Florence Meeker, a widow, has a suit against the company for $5000 for care and education of her injured son and loss of his services.

GIRL DUPED INTO BIGAMOUS MARRIAGE TRIES TO WED AGAIN

Margaret Lagow, 19, Told at License Office That She Must Obtain Annulment of First Ceremony.

Margaret Lagow, 19 years old, of 1819 Texas avenue, who was duped into a bigamous marriage by John Dixon, 13 months ago, must obtain an annulment of that marriage before she can marry Frederick Douglas of 2914 Caroline street. The two applied for a marriage license at the city hall and in Clayton yesterday, but it was refused in both places, and the young woman, who seemed to think that because her marriage was illegal it was not an obstacle to another marriage, was warned that she was mistaken as to the law.

Dixon had a wife and child living at 1619A Carroll street when he married Miss Lagow. He was with the first wife at a picture show when the second wife saw him, and the two women joined in a complaint against Dixon, who fled. He was arrested in Iowa, and the young woman said yesterday that he was sentenced in Judge Garrecht's court to a year's imprisonment in the penitentiary, but was paroled.

LAWYER'S CLAIM FOR FEE IN LEMP DIVORCE SUIT UPHELD

Verdict for $2642 Against Mrs. Lillian Lemp in Favor of John S. Leahy Is Sustained.

The St. Louis Court of Appeals today affirmed a Circuit Court verdict of $2642.54 in favor of Attorney John S. Leahy against Mrs. Lillian Hanahan Lemp, divorced wife of William J. Lemp, who died in 1915. Leahy was one of her lawyers in her divorce action which resulted in her obtaining a legal separation and $100,000 alimony in gross.

The petition states that Dr. Thurman was the family physician of the Boyers. The Boyers were married in 1905, according to the petition, and have five children.

Dr. Thurman could not be reached for a statement.

bottom their natural antagonism to river competition, but I do not think they will give it expression as unjustly and unfairly as in the past.

Temperate in Requests. "On the other hand, I would caution the railroad men to be temperate in their requests and not lose their heads. I do not like this talk of 'demanding' this and 'demanding' that. The waterways should not attempt to take freight which they can handle only at a loss. By that I do not mean that the waterways should concede all the first-class profitable freight to railroads and accept only low-grade freight."

"There are certain fifth-class freights that can move better by rail than water. On the other hand, most first-class freight can move as well by water as by rail, and the railroads are the owners of the roads, and their own old ways of ignoring cost sheets. It is not tonnage the barge line needs but the expense of the barge line. With only tonnage it may fail. With profitable tonnage it is bound to be a success."

Future Is Uncertain. "It is not apparent at this time what disposition will be made of the waterways at the time of the return of the railroads. I do not expect that they will be given over to the Department of Commerce. That might mean that they would fall prey to politics, which would be fatal. I do not think they will be given either to the War or the Navy Department. That might mean that they would be operated without regard to dollars and cents. Expensive operation would also be fatal to the experiment."

"Personally I believe, and there are leaders in the Railroad Administration who think the same, that the Mississippi project and others of like nature will be put under the control of a department created for them."

Understand that effort will be made to persuade Congress to pass legislation compelling the co-ordination and co-operation of railways and waterways. While that may be a wise precaution, I doubt that it is needed. I believe the railroads are converted to the fact that wherever waterways operate the railroads experience increased freight totals."

THREE MEN NAMED AT WEISSER INQUEST

Coroner's Jury Finds Woman Came to Death at Hands of Nick Christ and Two Others.

In returning a homicide verdict today a Coroner's jury declared that Mrs. Lavina Weisser, known also as Elizabeth Weisser, of 2411 South Broadway, died of knife wounds at the hands of Nick Christ, a roomer at her home, William Blvd. of 2216 South Broadway, and Jim Harry, known also as Hidi Al, of 2231 South Third street.

Mrs. Weisser was found dead in her home yesterday morning with knife wounds and bruises on her head and neck. Her throat had been cut.

There was no direct testimony at the inquest against any of the men named by the jury, but the verdict will make it possible to hold them while further police investigation is being made.

Christ, who said he found the body, told the police he made the discovery when he returned from a restaurant. At that time he said nothing about anyone else being in the house.

If the inquest today he testified that when he started to the restaurant at 6:15 a. m. yesterday he found Jim Harry in a hallway of the house, and Harry asked him to get a bottle of milk. When Christ returned with the bottle of milk, he said, he saw William Bidl on the rear porch. He said Harry took the milk from him and said: "Get out of here and keep your mouth shut."

Christ said he was told of a quarrel which he said Bidl had with Mrs. Weisser about two weeks ago when Mrs. Weisser refused to let him room there longer.

Bidl and Harry took the stand and denied they were near the Weisser home yesterday morning. Other witnesses told of quarrels between Christ and Mrs. Weisser.

GOVERNOR PROBABLY WON'T ACT

The Governor said that as the Speaker had failed to sign the bill, he would not, and probably could not legally sign it, and that if he did sign it it would not be a law.

Under the provisions of the Gardner bill the road bonds would have been printed and deposited with the County Treasurer, and the County Treasurer would have been required to issue the bonds, and that no taxes could be levied to pay them unless they actually were issued and sold. Without sale and delivery of the bonds, said, there is no indebtedness and a tax levy would be illegal. He also said the bill proposed to exceed the constitutional limitation on taxation of the county, and that it would be a further defect which would threaten the legality of the proceeding.

He sued for $4000, and an additional $200, which amount Mrs. Lemp admitted she owed him for expenses he had incurred. She stated that she understood that the $3000 originally allowed by the Circuit Court was all the money the lawyers were to receive.

GARDNER ROAD MEASURE DID NOT BECOME A LAW

Bill to Permit County to Hold Bonds in Treasury Not Signed by the Speaker.

It was learned today in Jefferson City that State Senator Gardner's bill permitting the County Court of St. Louis County to hold in the County Treasury the $2,000,000 of county road bonds recently declared valid by the United States Supreme Court, and which its opponents say threatened to prevent the construction of county highways, was not signed by Speaker O'Fallon, and thus cannot become a law.

The bill apparently sought to save the county the interest on the bonds by providing that they should be held in the treasury and retired as taxes were collected to meet them. It was estimated that under this bill not more than $200,000 would be available for road work each year.

The bill was drawn by Sam D. Hodgdon, Probate Judge of St. Louis County, and was introduced and passed by the Legislature by Senator Gardner of St. Louis County.

Ralph Opposed Measure. Prosecuting Attorney Ralph led a movement to influence Gov. Gardner not to sign the measure. He contended that the measure was an error which would be a waste of money, and that all road work in the county might be stopped through legal proceedings to test it.

The Governor, after receiving several protests including that by V. E. Rutherford and former Circuit Judge Dan C. Taylor, found that through some error the Speaker of the House had failed to sign the bill, an error which precludes the possibility of its becoming law, and the bill was not signed.

Under the provisions of the Gardner bill the road bonds would have been printed and deposited with the County Treasurer, and the County Treasurer would have been required to issue the bonds, and that no taxes could be levied to pay them unless they actually were issued and sold. Without sale and delivery of the bonds, said, there is no indebtedness and a tax levy would be illegal. He also said the bill proposed to exceed the constitutional limitation on taxation of the county, and that it would be a further defect which would threaten the legality of the proceeding.

THREE ST. LOUISANS ARE AWARDED D. S. C.

Private Charles Disalvo, Lieut. Charles Allen and Corp. Gus Paluback Praised as Heroes.

Award of the Distinguished Service Cross to three St. Louis soldiers for heroism in action was announced yesterday by the War Department. One of the awards is to Private Charles Disalvo, and corrects a previous report that Disalvo had been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. This error probably grew out of the fact that Disalvo's feat was cited by Gen. Pershing as one of "the 100 best stories of the war," nearly all of which concerned men who won the Congressional Medal.

The other two winners announced today are: Lieut. Charles B. Allen and Corp. Gus W. Paluback, but the addresses given for them by the War Department are obviously erroneous. Lieut. Allen's address is given as 2716 South Fifty-ninth street. There is no such street. Hamilton avenue is 5900 west, and does not run that far south. Neither does the address, 407 Cliffview street, given for Paluback, appear in the city directory.

The citation follows: Private Charles Disalvo (deceased), Company B, 34th Infantry, Eighty-ninth Division. For extraordinary heroism in action near Remonville, France, Nov. 1, 1918. When the combat group of which he was a member was held up by enemy machine guns, he charged forward alone and, attacking the nest, killed one gunner and forced the rest to surrender. His heroic act enabled the advance to be resumed, although Private Disalvo had himself been mortally wounded. Next of kin, Mrs. Rose Disalvo (wife), 3305 Arlington avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Second Lieutenant Charles B. Allen, 137th Infantry, Thirty-fifth Division. For extraordinary heroism in action near Baulny, France, Sept. 29, 1918. Though suffering from the effects of gas, he refused to be evacuated and upon his company commander being called upon to assume command of the battalion, Lieut. Allen displayed marked bravery and skill in leading the advance of his company. Seriously wounded, he again refused to be evacuated, remaining on duty until his command was withdrawn. Home address, Mrs. Charles B. Allen (wife), 2716 South Fifty-ninth street, St. Louis.

Corp. Gus W. Paluback, Company B, 131st Infantry. For extraordinary services in action near Forges Woodes, France, Sept. 26, 1918. He advanced alone on his own initiative in the face of heavy machine gun fire, and destroyed a nest of German machine guns. His brave action allowed his company to resume the advance. Home address, John Paluback, 410 Cliffview street, St. Louis, Mo.

Medals Formally Awarded.
Announcement also is made of the award of the Distinguished Service Cross to Private Sam Goldberg of Headquarters Company, 124th Infantry, of 1514 Middle street, and of the Congressional Medal of Honor to Sgt. M. Waldo M. Hatter, 254th Infantry, the facts of which have been printed in the Post-Dispatch. As was told in the citations, already printed, Sgt. Hatter swam the Mouse River and reconnoitered enemy positions on the other side, returning with valuable information. Sgt. Goldberg captured 18 Germans from a dugout at the point of a pistol, later dressing the wounds of an officer under fire and making four prisoners carry a wounded officer.

A letter telling of the award of the Distinguished Service Cross to Sgt. George Calhoun Jr., E Battery, 124th (East St. Louis) Field Artillery, has been received by his mother, Mrs. Anna Calhoun, formerly of 516 Wendley avenue, East St. Louis, from Capt. Bradford V. Moore of the regiment. The citation follows:

Sgt. George Calhoun Jr., Battery E, 124th Field Artillery. For great devotion to duty, coolness and initiative in action near Romagne, France, Nov. 1, 1918. When his gun was destroyed by an enemy shell during a rolling barrage, and only two of his squad left uninjured, replaced his squad with reserve men and took up the following barrage on schedule time. During these operations, although hardly able to walk on account of muscular rheumatism, he refused to leave his post and remained in charge of his section.

The present address of Mrs. Calhoun is 302A Missouri avenue, where she conducts a rooming house. She told today that her son George is 30 years old, and had served four years in the marines, his term ending about four years ago. When the 124th Artillery was recruited he and two brothers enlisted. One of these died of illness and the other was sent home because of dependents. Mrs. Calhoun has a personal letter from Gen. Pershing, praising the feat of her son.

Resolutions indorsing the league of nations and the efforts to free Ireland, and favoring censorship of moving pictures, were drafted last night by the Resolutions Committee of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae for presentation at today's session for ratification.

Today marks the closing of the convention, which has been meeting for four days at Hotel Statler. It will end tonight with a concert. The place of meeting, originally announced as Knights of Columbus Hall, has been changed to Hotel Statler.

Other resolutions urge war workers to turn their attention to solving the social and reconstructional problems now confronting the country, especially those having reference to the affairs of disabled soldiers and sailors.

Urges Moral Training.
Another announcement is the willingness of the organization to support any educational measure placed before Congress that aims to do away with illiteracy. Such a bill to obtain such support, delegates say, must advocate not only vocational but moral training, and must not interfere with the State rights principle insofar as it affects education. This resolution is aimed at the Smith-Towner bill which delegates say, was killed before the Sixty-fifth Congress. The bill proposed to establish a Federal Department of Education and in such a way as to do away with parochial and private schools.

The sale and exhibition of indecent pictures, advertising, plays, literature and cartoons also was protested against.

Cablegram to Be Sent to Pope.
A cablegram of thanks to Pope Benedict XV was formulated today by the Very Rev. Edward A. Pace, Ph. D., a professor in the Catholic University of Washington, D. C., who is listed as the principal speaker of tonight's program. The cable expresses the appreciation of the convention for the Holy Father's recent kindly expressions concerning the noble war work accomplished by the Catholic women of America. It will be read by Prof. Pace before the convention, probably at tonight's session, for approval before being sent.

A feature of the morning's program, which opened with the singing of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," was the report of the Committee on Elections. The polls are open today from 1:15 to 3 o'clock and at the evening session the new officers will be installed.

Few Re-Elections Likely.
Mrs. James J. Sheeran of New York, co-founder of the federation, and Mrs. Frank P. Scrivener of Baltimore, governor of the Maryland State organization, are mentioned for the presidency. The present officers have held office a year longer than usual, the convention having been postponed until after the war, and this has given rise to the opinion that few if any officers will be re-elected to the positions they now hold.

At a noon luncheon at the M. A. A. the following women spoke: Mrs. Benjamin F. Bush, chairman Mission Women's Committee, Council of National Defense; Mrs. James J. Sheeran, co-founder, Miss Mary I. Hoxey, president Queen's Daughters; Mrs. Theodore Benoit, president Catholic Women's League; and Mrs. Hugh T. Kelly, trustee.

At the afternoon session the delegates heard an address by the Rev. Nicholas Franzen, C. S. S. R., and

NC-4 WILL NOT TRY TO FLY BACK TO AMERICA

Trip Over Was for Scientific Purposes Only, Daniels Says—Craft to Be Sent Home.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 3.—The American naval seaplane NC-4, which arrived at Plymouth, England, Saturday, thereby completing the first transatlantic flight, will not attempt a nonstop or any other kind of a flight back to the United States, Secretary Daniels announced. The seaplane will be disassembled and shipped to this country.

The Secretary said the navy contemplates no attempt at a nonstop transatlantic flight in the near future, as the navy did not desire to make a spectacular showing, was not in any competition for transatlantic flight honors and did not favor "stunt" flying.

Secretary Daniels declared that the navy is content to rest on its laurels for the present and that the NC-4 will be brought back to this country on board the U. S. S. Arctostrophus. The crew will return later on board Government vessels.

The NC-4 flight was purely in the interest of aerial science, he said. "After we have completed all of the data gathered during the flight, been made confident by our mistakes and reconstructed our planes to conform with the lesson we have learned, it then will be time to begin considering further experiment in transatlantic flying; until then we are satisfied," Secretary Daniels added.

Asked if the crew of the NC boat would go to Paris, Secretary Daniels said they would go if President Wilson or Admiral Benson sent for them. Otherwise, they will return to the United States shortly and aviation officials will begin the work of compiling the data obtained and begin a series of experiments in an effort to place it in effect.

Messages of congratulation to the navy upon the success of its exploit were received from King George of England, the Brazilian Minister of Marine, Gen. Guglielmo, in behalf of the Italian army, and the British Air Ministry. That from King George said:

"The King wishes to congratulate his excellency (the American Ambassador) on the safe arrival of the American seaplane and ask him if he will convey his congratulations to Mr. Daniels and the American navy."

"Allow me to present to you on behalf of the Italian army and in my name my most hearty congratulations for the splendid performances accomplished by the NC-4 in crossing from America to Europe," Gen. Guglielmo said.

"The successful crossing of the Atlantic is first accomplished by the United States naval flying corps," said the Brazilian message.

ROBERT ESTATE CLAIM DENIED

Attorney's Executors Had Asked for $57,000 in Fees From Liggett Estate.

The claim in behalf of the estate of Edward S. Robert, an attorney, who died eight years ago, for additional fees amounting to $57,000 against the estate of John E. Liggett, who died in 1897, leaving holdings estimated at $6,000,000, was denied yesterday by the Supreme Court, which affirmed Probate Judge Holtkamp's action in the matter.

Robert was one of the executors of Liggett's estate, and it was asserted by the executors of his own estate that he did not receive what he was lawfully entitled to for handling Liggett's affairs.

ARMY HOSPITAL NO. 40 COST U. S. $400,000

Conservative Estimate Shows
Expense at Facial Injury Center
$1000 a Patient.

An estimate of the cost to the War Department of the establishment and maintenance of Army Hospital No. 40 in the city infirmary buildings at 5400 Arsenal street, which, as announced exclusively in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, will be closed June 15 after an operation of 11 weeks, is at least $400,000. Some items of cost, fixed in contract with the city or estimated conservatively by army officers attached to the hospital, follow:

Payment to city for removal of patients to Christian Brothers College building ..... $65,000
Rent to city, $1000 a month, for seven months, lease beginning on Nov. 3 ..... 7,000
Cost of remodeling building into hospital, as estimated by Col. R. J. Edgar Jr., commandant ..... 150,000
Cost of equipment, estimated by Col. Edgar ..... 100,000
$322,000

Must Be Reconverted.

This does not include the cost of converting the hospital for use as a city infirmary, which, under the agreement with the city, must be borne by the Government. This will involve the conversion of many small rooms into large rooms such as existed when the building was used for an infirmary. Nor does the total include the cost of maintenance since the hospital received its first patients in April 2. The personnel of the staff is 46 officers, 49 nurses and 205 enlisted men.

The capacity of the hospital is 371 patients. The maximum number of patients at any one time has been 215 and the total cared for since the opening has not exceeded 150. Thus the cost of the hospital has exceeded $1000 a patient.

Reason for Closing.

The reason assigned by the War Department for the closing of the hospital is that the flow of sick and wounded men from France has ceased and that such men as are sent to the country are sent to military hospitals about the country are sent there in need of consolidation.

The War Department made its decision to establish the St. Louis hospital in February, 1918. It was designed for the treatment of facial wounds primarily.

Director of Public Welfare Schmitt said that he had not been notified of the War Department's intention to return the buildings to the city. He said that the contract provided for its restoration to its former condition for use as an infirmary and that when the contract was fulfilled the city infirmary patients would be moved back from the Christian Brothers College building and the college building made over into a community center.

PERMANENT PEACE POLICY FOR CARRIERS BEFORE CONGRESS

Bill Drafted by I. C. C. Proposes Control Under Extended Powers
by Revision of Law.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A permanent peace time policy for common carriers engaged in interstate commerce, including railroad, telegraph, telephone, cable and radio companies, was presented to Congress yesterday in a bill drafted by the Interstate Commerce Commission and introduced by Senator Pomerene, Democrat, of Ohio and Representative Esch, chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

Regulation of the carriers by the commission under broad and extended powers is provided in the bill, which is a proposed revision of the interstate commerce act and is said to represent the commission's view on existing transportation problems. Under the measure the commission would have power to continue the present regional plan of railroad operations and also extend it to oil pipe lines, express companies and all interstate wire companies.

Among the powers which would be given the commission under the bill are: Regulation and institution of reasonable rates and charges, with provision that labor and other operating costs shall be considered; general supervision of operations; authority to establish and enforce rules, regulations and practices including divisions of rates and joint use of terminals, docks, wire exchanges and other facilities; regulation of new security issues; authority to require or prohibit building of new lines; making of leases, consolidations and extensions and abandonment of service; establishment or annulment of priority or preference in transportation under permits.

CAMERON TRIAL IN NOVEMBER

Judge Dearing of the Reynolds County Circuit Court adjourned court on Saturday until the fourth Monday in November without setting a special day to hear the case of Bruce Cameron, superintendent of the United Railway Co., charged with burglary in the second degree and larceny in connection with the theft of the referendum petitions last June 15.

A denurrer to the indictment was argued May 26 and the denurrer was taken under advisement by Judge Dearing after granting counsel 60 days to get in their briefs. The case will not come up until the November term.

During the first four months of 1919 the Post-Dispatch printed 12,593 Houses, Flats, etc. For Rent Ads—more than the FOUR other St. Louis newspapers combined.

ARGENTINIANS WARN AMERICANS TO LEARN PEOPLE'S CUSTOMS

Otherwise New Business Obtained as Result of War Cannot Be Retained, Speakers Say.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The actual work of the second Pan-American Commercial Conference, which opened here yesterday, continued at today's sessions with discussions of trade relations, their possibilities and dangers between various Latin-American countries and the United States. Secretary of Commerce Redfield and Dr. Francisco Tulecia y Varela, Ambassador from Peru, were the first speakers, after which trade relations with Brazil, Chile, Colombia and Costa Rica were discussed.

The Argentines set a model for future discussions when Pablo Roth, Dr. Sanchez Illa and Dr. Angerina at last night's sessions frankly told the Americans that unless they learn the ways, customs and needs of the people of Argentina they cannot hope to hold the increase of trade that has come to the United States as a result of the war. The lack of a market in Europe and lack of shipping as a result of the war gave the United States much of the business that formerly went to Europe, they said, and this business would go back to Europe unless the business men of the United States made special efforts to hold it on terms that appealed to the Argentines.

The frankness of the Argentina delegates won enthusiastic applause and started a lively debate which was resumed when the Bolivian situation came up.

64 MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED YESTERDAY; AVERAGE IS 18

Bureau Not Surprised by "June Rush." Attributed Partly to Return of Soldiers.

Yesterday was a record-maker at the Marriage License Bureau in the city hall, 64 marriage licenses being issued during the day. The average number issued daily is only about 28. The regular rush of June brides was augmented by the soldiers returning to the "girls they left behind them."

A year ago yesterday there were 58 applications for the necessary permits, following 36 applications the Saturday before.

The bureau expected only about 45 license applications today, and believes that the number will soon dwindle to the average. Last Saturday there were 27 licenses issued, about the average, with 31 on Thursday, the last preceding business day.

Arrest of Cardinal Gibbons' Home.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, June 3.—Charles Hobson, who said his home was in St. Louis, where he had been employed as orderly in a hospital, was arrested at 2 a. m. today by police sent to guard the residence of Cardinal Gibbons, following the bomb explosions in Washington and other cities. Hobson was seen to enter the vestibule of the Cardinal's residence. He was sent to an asylum for two months by a Magistrate.

DETECTIVES PURSUE AUTOMOBILE MANY BLOCKS IN NIGHT RACE

"Flying Squadron" Arrests Three Men, One a Deputy Constable, and Holds Them for Circuit Attorney.

Detectives Kaiser, Werner and Wetzel, whose duties as members of the Police Department's "flying squadron" are to drive about the city at night searching for highwaymen, chased a seven-passenger car, occupied by three men, through alleys, up and down main thoroughfares and over cross streets in the neighborhood of Nineteenth, Twenty-first, Olive, Locust streets and Washington and Lucas avenues at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

As the chase was drawing to a close the detectives saw they saw a man in the other automobile pass a revolver to one of his companions. The detectives drew their revolvers and commanded the driver of the other car to stop. They had recognized him as Tony Sansone, 2967 North Grand avenue, owner of a second vice car. The other men were recognized as Gus Dittmeyer, who said he had no permanent address, and John McCarthy, a deputy constable, living at 929 North Twenty-second street.

McCarthy had two loaded revolvers and said both weapons belonged to him. The men were ordered held for the Circuit Attorney.

More Missouri Men Reach the States.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., June 3.—The transport Canonicus arrived today with 55 officers and 1323 men of the Eighty-eighth (North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri) Division aboard. Units on the ship included the first battalion of the 352d Infantry, the machine gun company of 352d Infantry and the 31st Supply Train.

How You May Easily Reduce Your Weight

Simple Method That Enabled Me to Reduce My Weight 15 Pounds in 20 Days.

"I was about 20 pounds overweight and gaining rapidly when I decided to reduce. After investigating I found what I believed to be the safest and most reliable way to do this. It was so easy and simple it was just like play. Each morning I would stand in an open window and take as deep a breath as I could, hold it and count up to 10, then expel it slowly, repeating this simple exercise several times. I went down to the drug store and got a little physio-lax. This was said to be valuable in the treatment of obesity, stimulating the liver, forcing tone to the heart and absorbing fatty tissue. I took a few grains of this medicine, and lo! the result was magical. I lost everything I wanted, but each day I weighed myself I saw an improvement. In 20 days I had lost over 15 pounds. I felt better, stronger and smoother. I was glad with the pinkness of health. I now look like a young man. I used this method, and my weight is still normal, with no indication of having been overweight."

"I can honestly recommend this simple method to any fat woman or man who wants to reduce safely and without the expense of expensive exercises, appliances or dieting. It is not expensive and the results are most pleasing. Endeavor Drug Co., Judge & Dolph, Wolf & Wilson, Kauf & Drug Co. and E. Moller can supply you with the genuine physio-lax at a small cost."—B. ## Looking at Truck Tires from the Ground Up

A worm's eye view of a Solid Rubber Truck Tire sustaining a load of a thousand pounds or more, rolling over average roadways would show more distortion and distention of the rubber than the average truck owner thinks possible.

In a great measure, all rubber looks and acts alike until you bend, pull and flex it out of shape, and what happens then is just this:

New, vibrant, properly toughened rubber will "come back," return to its normal shape; heavily loaded, logy, inert rubber won't. Result—a lumping condition in tires that invites undue wear and tear. The even wear of GOODRICH DE LUXE SOLID RUBBER TRUCK TIRES is proverbial. They rarely, if ever show any tendency to nick, chip off or disintegrate generally.

DRUG STORE ROBBER KNOCKS CLERK DOWN

Hold-Up. Men Were Departing
When Employee Reached for an Iron Bar.

Two young men, armed with revolvers, entered the drug store of Charles Gietner, 293 South Broadway, at 9:30 o'clock last night, and compelled the clerk, Frank Hubbel, and his assistant, Charles Kingsley, to hold up their hands and stand against the wall. One of the men covered them while the other took $14 from the cash register.

As the robbers started to depart Kingsley stooped to pick up an iron bar and was promptly knocked down by one of the robbers with the butt end of his pistol. The robbers escaped. Kingsley was treated at the dispensary for a scalp wound.

Three men, two of them armed, held up John Barry, 4026 Cottage avenue, and Joseph Rich, 3967 Page boulevard, within an hour last night. Barry was held up at Warner and Cottage avenues and robbed of $9 at 10 o'clock. Rich was stopped in front of his home at 11 o'clock and robbed of a check for $740 and $23. The descriptions of the trio in each case are similar, police say. The check stolen from Rich was a certified cashier's check.

Joseph Arnett, Fredericktown, Mo., was held up by four men near Eleventh and Market streets, at 2 a. m. today and robbed of $20.

Cut Through 9-Inch Wall.
Burglars in the office of the Andrew Schaefer Wrecking Co., 3600 Clarence avenue, early yesterday drilled and chiseled a hole 16x16 inches through a nine-inch brick wall in order to get into a built-in vault in the office. Through this aperture they were able to extract $168 from the safe.

Policemen say the men first tried to get into the vault by knocking off the handle on the door. The lock jammed, however, and they abandoned this method and dug through the wall.

Detectives are investigating the theft of Liberty Bonds valued at $1550 from an unlocked safe in the office of the Ramsey Machine and Electrical Co., 201 North Twelfth street, early yesterday. The bonds were the property of William Ramsey, president of the concern.

Cigars Stolen From Truck.

Cigars and case eggs valued at $1500 were stolen with a truck of the Stokely-Hoelscher Cigar Co., 497 Olive street, driven away from in front of 3618 Washington boulevard during the afternoon. The truck was found three hours later abandoned in an alley in the rear of 4442 Maffitt street. The thieves had carried off $665.36 worth of the cigars and $12 worth of eggs. Police are puzzled over the fact that the thieves left the rest of the cigars and eggs in the truck. They believe they were frightened while unloading the vehicle.

Burglars at the home of Frank Hoas, 4023 Lucky street, in the absence of the family, obtained $125 worth of jewelry and clothing.

HOG FARM CAUSES 85 MINERS TO BE THROWN OUT OF WORK

Examiner Orders Mine Near Belleville Closed Because Odor Penetrates Shaft.

Eighty-five miners and five top-men were thrown out of work yesterday when Mine Examiner George Granger of the New National Coal Co. ordered the mine closed because of the odor from the Gravelly Valley Hog Farm, near Belleville, which is sucked down into the mine by the fan in the ventilating shaft. A mine committee composed of Granger, Charles Gibbons and John Hubert was named to consult an attorney with a view to instituting suit against Guy W. Caron, the head of the company operating the hog farm, for damages for time lost by the men. State Mine Inspector Thomas Wright has posted a notice at the mine, which is three blocks from the hog farm, that the men are not to be permitted to go down if the odor from the farm penetrates the mine.

Steps to restrain the company from operating the farm are to be taken by the City of Belleville in injunction proceedings which will be filed shortly. There are from 4000 to 5000 hogs at the farm, a half mile south of Belleville, where St. Louis garbage is fed.

THERE ARE FIVE WAYS of getting Want Ads to the Post-Dispatch office. Through your druggist, over your phone, by mail, by messenger or personal call—with no difference in prices.

ORDER OF RAILWAY CONDUCTORS WILL END CONVENTION TODAY

Election of Minor Officers Expected to Occupy Last Session; Many Candidates Announced.

The Order of Railway Conductors of America met for its final session today. The election of a member of the insurance board and the inside and outside sentinels was expected to occupy the entire day, as many candidates had announced for the vacancies. The convention has been holding daily sessions at Arcadia Hall, 3517 Olive street, since May 12. Oscar Bush of Kansas City was elected to a vice presidency yesterday. G. A. Anderson of Wichita, Kan., was elected a member of the board of trustees, and C. E. Bishop of Danville, Ill., chairman of the General Grievance Committee of the Washash Railroad lines, was elected chairman of the insurance board.

Although the convention ends today, more than 100 grand officers and confederates will remain in St. Louis to complete the business of the organization. More than 400 delegates and visitors have registered for the special trip to Hot Springs, Ark., which is scheduled for tomorrow.

"AYARS FAMILY" HOME CONDEMNED AS UNSAFE

Changes to Comply With Fire
Regulations Ordered—Place
Was Pronounced Insanitary.

With the order from the Board of Aldermen of University City to "clean house or get out" the troubles of the "Ayars family," as the Mothers and Babies Home, 6600 Washington avenue, of which Mrs. Treston R. Ayars, 716 Belt avenue, is president, is designated, have just begun.

M. T. Schaffer, Deputy Building Commissioner of University City, has condemned the home as a "fire trap," and as a result of a report made by him Mrs. Ayars has been served with notice by City Clerk Colby that when she has complied with the health regulations ordered by the Board of Aldermen, set out in 29 counts, she must have the building altered to conform with recommendations of the Building Commissioner's office.

Knobless doors in the rooms occupied by boys on the third floor of the institution struck Schaffer as being as much of a menace, in case of fire, as the fact that he found the building, covering 27,000 square feet of space, was equipped with not a single fire wall when, in his opinion, there should be at least five. He also found that the large building was provided with only three staircases.

these wooden and unprotected, and he recommended that they should be replaced by fire-proof stairways in each wing.

Attendants informed Schaffer and other investigators that the knobs had been removed from the doors so that the boys would be prevented from running in and out of the rooms during the day. At night the doors were left ajar, it was said, but it was admitted that a light gust of wind would blow them shut.

Prosecuting Attorney Ralph of Clayton, accompanied by Dr. G. C. Eggers, Health Commissioner of St. Louis County, who went along in an advisory capacity, inspected the building yesterday and stated that the order issued by the Board of Aldermen and the recommendations of Schaffer were in his opinion, well founded. He expressed concern as to what might happen to the 120 children, ranging in age from a few months to 15 years, and the 42 old folks, who are inmates of the home, in the event of a fire at night.

As the danger from alleged insanitary conditions at the home is present, while that from fire is a possibility, the City Clerk at University City has instructed Mrs. Ayars that she must comply with the order of the Board of Aldermen before taking up the recommendations of the Deputy Building Commissioner.

"The Real Show All Right"

These Men Know Real Fighting When They See It

The Head of the Marines

April 26, 1919.

My dear Mr. Parker:

Just a line of congratulation on the wonderful war paintings now running in the Ladies Home Journal. I think Schoenover's conception of the capture of machine guns in Belleau Wood by U. S. Marines is remarkably clever, and I have heard Marines who were in that fighting say that the painting is so true to life it might have been painted on the spot during the action.

Sincerely,

George B. Smith
Major General Commandant.

The General of "The Fighting 27th"

HEADQUARTERS
TWENTY-SEVENTH DIVISION
UNITED STATES ARMY

May 2, 1919.

Dear Mr. Schoenover:-

I have looked over your picture "Smashing the Hindenberg Line" which is to be reproduced in The Ladies' Home Journal, and I am much pleased that some of the deeds of the 27th Division are to be thus depicted.

We are all so interested and enthusiastic about the pictures that we are anxious to help in every way possible, because the enterprise of The Curtis Publishing Company in presenting the deeds of our doughboys in this form makes it possible for all to obtain and preserve an accurate and artistic record of achievement.

Sincerely,

John F. O'Ryan

GARDNER FINALLY LANDS HOSPITAL JOB FOR FOLLOWER

Nevada Asylum Managers
Meet to Accept Resignation of Superintendent Who Fought Ousting.

OUTGOING OFFICER
A MAJOR APPOINTEE

Governor Two Years Ago Began Attempt to Remove
Dr. Will P. Bradley and Put in Dr. T. B. M. Craig.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

NEVADA, Mo., June 3.—The Board of Managers of State Hospital No. 2, commonly known as the Nevada Asylum, met today to accept the resignation of Dr. Will P. Bradley, superintendent, to elect in his place Dr. T. B. M. Craig, and thus to continue it as a politically managed institution, merely changing the character of political management from a Major appointee to a Gardner appointee.

Gov. Gardner two years ago began the attempt to remove Dr. Bradley, whose appointment four years before by Gov. Major had been purely a political appointment, but who professed at the end of the Major administration to have eliminated politics from the hospital organization. When Gardner became Governor he promised the superintendency to Dr. Craig, a resident of Nevada, who had supported him actively in his campaign.

How Change Was Held Up.
The Governor issued directions to the Board of Managers to elect Dr. Craig, but his plans failed because of the Rev. A. N. Lindsay of Clinton, whom the Governor understood to have promised to support Dr. Craig. The Rev. Mr. Lindsay denied having made any promise, though he admitted that he sat still and heard the Governor express a desire that he vote for Dr. Craig.

Dr. Bradley had supported the Rev. Mr. Lindsay, who was a candidate against Gardner for the Democratic nomination for Governor, and the minister returned the favor when Dr. Bradley desired to remain in his job. Two holdover Major appointees on the board voted with Lindsay and Dr. Bradley was certain of his place until there were vacancies on the board and Gov. Gardner could fill them with men who would do his political bidding.

Two Stormy Years. The past two years have been rather stormy ones at the institution, though Dr. Bradley insists that he has gone ahead and tried to conduct the institution scientifically and without regard to politics. He did fairly well, he said, until a few months ago, when W. M. Bowker of Nevada resigned as a member of the board, having been elected to the State Senate, and the terms of J. A. Daugherty of Webb City and F. M. Russell of Conway expired. Bowker had been against Dr. Bradley, but Daugherty and Russell supported him.

In their places the Governor named F. M. McDavid of Springfield, M. T. Davis of Aurora and Dr. J. M. Yater of Nevada, all of whom were for Dr. Craig and against Dr. Bradley. Dr. Yater and Dr. Craig having formerly been partners in the practice of medicine in Nevada.

Dr. Bradley, having been re-elected superintendent for a term of four years, could only be removed after a formal trial before the board on charges. These charges were prepared and the trial was set for April 3, but on the day of the trial the charges were withdrawn and even stricken from the records of the board.

Resignation Submitted. It was understood at the time that an agreement had been reached that the board did not wish to have a trial because of the possible adverse effect on the institution, and that the charges were withdrawn with the understanding that Dr. Bradley would resign. Dr. Bradley denied today that he resigned as a result of an agreement that the charges be withdrawn, but at all events his resignation was submitted and accepted without delay.

The charges were preferred by Dr. J. W. Dawson, Dr. W. F. Schlicht, Dr. C. B. Davis, assistant physicians at the hospital, and F. B. Callaway, the steward. They were that Dr. Bradley had refused to permit the assistant physicians to use mechanical restraints, which they contend were at times necessary to prevent violently insane persons from injuring themselves; that he had several relatives on the payroll; that he was arbitrary, tyrannical and discourteous in the treatment of officers and employees; that the storekeeper, a brother of Dr. Bradley, did not properly safeguard the supplies and that supplies were used for other than hospital purposes; that because of neglect of the superintendent the plumbing became defective and that the hospital was overrun with vermin.

Charges Were Denied. Dr. Bradley denied all the charges except that he had relatives on the payroll, and in a formal statement asked that the board make a thorough investigation of the institution. The board refused to put his request on record.

The politics of the Nevada asylum situation is also mixed in with the Folk-Willey campaign for the Democratic nomination for Senator last summer. Dr. Bradley supported Folk in a mild sort of way, but he refused to obey instructions from R. Perry Spencer, political manipulator for Gov. Gardner, that he organize the institution's employees for Willey. Dr. Craig was an active Willey supporter, and other new appointees of the Gardner administration at the hospital were for Willey. Gov. Gardner's candidate, and against Folk.

Other Recent Selections. Among recent selections for the hospital jobs are Thomas Dunphy of Nevada, active in local politics, to succeed J. R. Bradley, the retiring superintendent's brother as storekeeper; J. H. Edmiston of Nevada, active in local politics, as a candidate for the nomination for county clerk in the last primary, for supervisor to succeed W. W. Bennett; Mrs. Harriet Peck, a sister of Senator Fowler, a member of the board, for matron to succeed Mrs. W. W. Bennett.

A. J. King of Nevada was chosen secretary to succeed J. E. Huff, who had held that position for many years. King is a Nevada lawyer. The salary of the secretary formerly was $100 a month, but several years ago was increased to $150. When King assumed the position he moved his family over to the hospital, where, in addition to his salary, he receives living expenses for his family. It is unusual for secretaries of the Board of Managers of State institutions to live at the institutions.

Callaway was re-elected steward. He resides at the hospital with his wife and several children. Dr. Bradley said that at times there had been five of Callaway's children, all grown, and several self-supporting, living at the hospital. It is usual for the steward and his family of a State institution to live at the institution. Callaway, at times, has had sons on the hospital payroll.

Reform Bill Was Dropped. In the opinion of Dr. Bradley and others familiar with institutions the condition at Nevada would not exist if all State institutions were under one Board of Managers, and were eliminated from local political influences. At the first Legislature of his administration Gov. Gardner recommended the enactment of such a law, but quickly abandoned his recommendation when the local political influences which largely control the institutions brought pressure to bear on him and on the Legislature.

Dr. Bradley recently received notification of the Governor's action on the legislative appropriations for the hospital, which are of interest in connection with the fact of employees of the hospital are living at the institution at the expense of the State. The Governor has decided to veto outright an appropriation of $55,000 for a badly needed new building, and has directed that $16,440 be not expended although appropriated. Included in this is $2000 for laboratory supplies, $500 for a patients' library, $300 for boiler room equipment, and $2500 for farm and garden implements.

LORD RIBBLESDALE IS ONE OF PICTURESQUE BRITISH NOBLES

New Husband of Former Mrs. John Jacob Astor Declares He Lived Over His Own Stables.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
LONDON, June 3.—Lord Ribblesdale, who was married to the former Mrs. John Jacob Astor Saturday, is one of the picturesque figures of the British nobility. Although he was once attached to the household of Queen Victoria as the Master of Her Majesty's Buck Hounds, he has described himself to friends as a poor nobleman living over his own stables in London.

The marriage will make the former Mrs. Astor one of the most influential hostesses in England. The surprise wedding came on the eve of a month that will be remembered in the matter of marriages, and will call for much entertaining for the first social season after the war.

Friends of the bride said that they had known she and Lord Ribblesdale were close friends, but they were surprised when she let them know in letters, received only yesterday morning, that she had decided to get married. Lord Ribblesdale is now without an heir, because both in South Africa and the other in of his sons were killed in battle, one Gallipoli.

WASHINGTON RENEWS PLEA FOR SUFFRAGE

Success of Women Spurs Residents to Agitation for Franchise in District of Columbia.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Encouraged by the prospective success of the women in getting the vote, Washingtonians have renewed their agitation for suffrage for the District of Columbia. Committees are being organized to persuade Congressmen that residents of the district should be taken out of the category of convicts and the mentally deficient and placed on a voting par with other parts of the United States. "Literature" with the slogan "Votes for Washington" is going out over the country.

Proponents of the movement argue that Washington, being now a city of nearly 500,000, should have some voice in the affairs of the nation. Some of them go so far as to demand two Senators and two Representatives. If Nevada, they ask, why not the District of Columbia? Others would be content, for the time being, with presidential suffrage and a delegate in Congress to speak on District affairs.

Congress is not impressed. The majority of Congressmen are not much impressed. They don't want local politics in Washington. Unless their constituencies begin a loud clamor of "Votes for Washington," they will not act.

ton—which is not likely—the District probably will be forced to worry along under the present arrangement, or at best will get only a delegate, like the Philippines.

This prediction is the safer in view of the recent elevation of Senator Sherman of Illinois to the chairmanship of the Senate committee on the District of Columbia. It was Sherman who, in the last session of Congress, amused his colleagues, delighted the war workers and "ried" Washingtonians, with a caustic speech setting forth the sins of the city and the sins of the nation. He called the city a den of profiteers, a nest of real estate highlanders, a place without a soul—or words to that general effect. The other day Sherman returned to the attack by suggesting that if prices here didn't come down, the capitol ought to be removed to some midwestern city—say St. Louis. The imagination must be stretched to picture Sherman giving the vote to Washington.

"War Workers" Still Throng Capital City.

Washington is still crowded. True, the streets and hotels are not so thronged as they were before the armistice, but in actual number of residents "war workers" there has been but a slight decrease. Figures compiled by the housing bureau show a net decrease of only about 10,000 Government clerks since Nov. 11. Many more persons than that have left the city, but the exodus has been offset in large part by the coming of others.

Though in the course of a few more months the city may regain something of its old uncrowded, unhurried character, it will never be again the Washington of pre-war times. It plumes itself now on being a "thriving" city, the capital of the world. And some of the "booster" would even bring in factories and try to make it an industrial center.

Rents are still high. With few houses for sale, and few houses are offered for rent at any price. Plenty of houses are advertised for sale, for the Washington landlord is a canny person and wants to unload at the prevailing inflated prices. Sales are being made daily in a volume that keeps the conveyancer's office swamped. Largely they are made to persons who came here with the intention of renting, but found themselves compelled to buy.

Another increase in rents is in prospect as soon as the Salisbury law, effective for the term of the war, ceases to protect tenants. This law provides that no tenant may be ousted during the war, unless the house is sold, and that his rent shall not be increased. Passed as an emergency measure to check rent profiteering in the district, the law has been a godsend to persons in occupancy at the time of its enactment.

It does not, however, keep down prices in other cases. The result is that a tenant who was fortunate enough to have a house at $50 when the law was passed still is paying that rent, while another man who signed his lease afterward may be paying $150 or $200 for a similar place.

This condition does not lead to the happiness of the landlord who is getting $50. As soon as peace is declared he intends to get more. Probably there will be a 20 to 25 per cent increase on all pre-war rentals at the first opportunity.

There is a simple explanation of the endless buying and selling of houses in Washington. The city is under a ban for its present needs. Unable to rent a place, the newcomer buys a house and in so doing evicts some tenant; the latter buys and sends someone else house-hunting. So it goes, in a circle. These are fat days for the real estate agents.

Controversy on 35th Division Regarded as Unfortunate.

From the point of view of the men of the Thirty-fifth Division, army officers here regard the "controversy" started by Gov. Allen of Kansas as extremely unfortunate.

As everyone knows who has followed the news of the accounts of the Allen charges, they were initiated by Gov. Allen and not in any sense by the men of the division. But not everyone has been sufficiently interested to read the full details. Many persons have a hazy idea that in some way the Thirty-fifth Division is to blame; they know merely that a "controversy" has been stirred up and that unpleasant things have been said.

It behooves the Missouri and the Kansas representatives on the Senate Military Affairs Committee, Senator Spencer and Senator Capper, if that committee should investigate the Allen charges, to see to it that any false impressions about the authorship of the charges are corrected.

St. Louis has two members on the House Judiciary Committee—representative Igoe (Dem.) and Representative Dyer (Rep.). This committee will begin hearings Tuesday on the bills that have been introduced for the enforcement of the prohibition laws, and the bill lifting the ban from beer and wine, as advocated by the President.

Columbia, Mo., Member on House Educational Committee.

Representative William L. Nelson of Columbia, coming from the State's chief educational center, was appropriately given a place on the House Committee on Education. Having been for a long time a lecturer and writer on agriculture, Nelson would have liked an assignment to the Committee on Agriculture also, but Missouri was already represented there by Representative T. L. Rubey.

Senator Spencer Has Full Program Ahead.

Senator Spencer of Missouri says he will be busy as chairman of the committee on Claims, whose work has been greatly augmented by the war. The position gives him one of the most desirable rooms in the Senate Office Building. To Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican whip, the Missourian is indebted in large measure for a list of committee assignments much above the average given a new member.

There is no longer a "Missouri corner" of the Capitol. Republicans began now installed in the office of Senate Sergeant-at-Arms, formerly occupied by Charles P. Higgins of St. Louis and W. D. Meng of Kansas City, his assistant.

Senator Reed Exhibits Letters Commending League Speech.

Senator Reed has put on exhibit in his office, for the edification of any who wish to examine them, several hundred letters that he has received in commendation of his recent speech proclaiming a "black-yellow-red peril" in the league of nations covenant. Many of them come from the South. Reed declares there is a growing sentiment against the proposed league.

GERMANS GIVE FOOD FOR KAISER

Swindler Fools Peasants on Flea Former Emperor in Starving.

BERLIN, June 2.—How the German peasantry have kept a warm place in their hearts for the former Kaiser is indicated by the exposure of a German confidence game. A well dressed swindler has been touring Haveland in an automobile and successfully working many villages by calling the peasants together and telling them that their Kaiser was literally starving in exile, as the Hollanders, incited by the Entente, kept Wilhelm on the scantiest rations. Hence, the Kaiser was appealing to the Eastmarkians for food. The Kaiser's "forager" collected large quantities of hams, eggs and flour from the royal peasantry.

OUR MEN ABROAD LIKE SCHOOL WORK

Scores of Thousands Studying and Expect to Come Home With Good Start.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 5.—Scores of thousands of American soldiers eagerly have grasped the opportunity to attend the schools which the army now is providing for all the men of the American Expeditionary Force, under the direction of the Educational Corps.

The post schools which are primary grades of this school system are used wherever they can find a roof to shelter them. Ploumdering through the mud of some little hamlet where American soldiers are stationed, one is likely to stumble upon such a school in full operation. An army chaplain recently chided upon such a school the pupils of which were standing on benches because the floor was under six inches of water and in a room dimly lighted by candles stuck in bottles. The sergeant-teacher was using a piece of tarred paper as a blackboard. It was 11 o'clock at night and 14 men whose military duties prevented them from attending in regular hours composed the extra class.

Symbolic of Spirit. This little scene is symbolic of the spirit with which the American soldiers have taken advantage of the educational training offered them by the army school system.

Men in some cases are working eight, 10 and 12 hours a day at mil-

tary duties, and then studying at night in the post schools, tired in body but doggedly determined. In some cases they have voluntarily worked at night so as to be allowed to attend a lecture or school session in the daytime. Men who have been taught to read and write often ask permission to take their dog-eared primers home with them when their divisions start for America. Thousands of such men have been started on the road to education in the past few months. But it must not be mistakenly assumed that all the soldier boys are coming back "with a higher education." The big idea of the Educational Corps is to give a man a start and enable him to "find himself," so to speak. Many a soldier has been a round peg in a square hole back home. The army is helping these men to get started on the right groove.

Practicality Key Word. Practicality is the key word of all the educational courses. The soldier is not going to school merely for the "fun of it." He wants results that will help him with his job back home and he is getting them. Vocational training is an important and successful feature of the post school and there are few trades that are not taught in some of them. In the academic course, history, English and mathematics hold the major places. If there is sufficient demand for the teaching of a given subject it is placed on the curriculum.

Agricultural courses are provided in many of the schools and find many pupils. Fifty per cent of the men in the army are from rural districts and many of them intend to return to their farms. Thousands of city men who have had their first days of outdoor life since they joined the army declare they will never return to the office stool. They like the independence of the farmer and hope to go into agricultural work when they return. The practical phases of farming are being taught to the men.

Teaching of citizenship is an important course. Under this head comes labor problems and subjects vital to the national welfare.

WANT BETTER 'PHONE SERVICE

Circuit Judges to Ask City to Furnish More Trunks.

The Circuit Judges yesterday appointed Judge Garesche to try and get the city to provide better telephone service at the city hall and Municipal Courts. According to Judge Garesche, who brought up the matter with the other judges, the city is not providing enough trunk lines to handle the business, which, he said, is done over one switchboard for both buildings. Long waits frequently result when one calls a number, the judge said.

The city will be asked to provide more operators and additional trunk service.

The Mission of Swift & Company

Swift & Company has become one of the large businesses of the world through continuing to meet the growing needs of a nation and a world.

Society has a right to ask how the increasing responsibilities and opportunities for usefulness which go with such growth are being used by the men who direct its affairs—and the men have the right to answer:

To promote the production of live stock and perishables and increase the food supply;

To reach more people with more and better meat;

To make a fair competitive profit, in order to reimburse the 25,000 shareholders for the use of their capital, and to provide for the future development of the business;

To reduce to a minimum the costs of preparing and distributing meat and to divide the benefits of efficiency with producer and consumer;

To live and let live, winning greater business only through greater usefulness, with injury to nothing but incompetency, inefficiency, and waste; to deal justly, fairly, and frankly with all mankind.

These are the purposes and motives of the men who direct the policies and practices of Swift & Company.

COURT'S DECISION IN WIRE AND RAIL CASE

Digest of Opinion Rendered Yesterday by Supreme Court Upholding Increased Rates.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 3.—Increased railroad, telephone and telegraph rates ordered by the Railroad Administration and by the Postmaster-General, respectively, were sustained yesterday by the Supreme Court, which held that the war powers conferred by Congress upon the President included sweeping control over the railroad and wire systems with "supreme and conclusive" authority to fix intra-state rates.

These questions were decided in two opinions rendered by Chief Justice White, the one relative to the railroad rates, being unanimous, while Justice Brandeis dissented in the telephone and telegraph decision, but without rendering a separate opinion. The opinions affect litigation which have been instituted in about 40 states, and which involved the validity of both rate orders.

As a result of the court's opinion, injunctions restraining the Director General of Railroads from enforcing an order increasing freight and passenger rates in North Dakota, were dissolved. The court also upheld the dismissal of proceedings brought by Massachusetts State authorities to prevent intra-state telephone rates in that State being increased and set aside injunctions preventing advance of telephone rates in South Dakota and telegraph rates in Illinois. In addition, the court also dismissed an original suit brought by the State of Kansas against the Postmaster-General, seeking to have the rates prescribed by him in that State declared unreasonable and to prevent them from being made effective.

War Powers Gave "Complete Control." In deciding the cases, the court held that the resolutions under which the Government took over control of these utilities, together with the President's proclamations and the Railroad Control Act, gave the United States "complete possession and control" under the war powers and that Congress had the right to confer these powers upon the President.

"On the face of the statutes," Chief Justice White said, in deciding the railroad case, "it is manifest that they were in terms based upon the war power, since the authority they gave arose only because of the existence of war and the rights to exert such authority was to cease upon the war's termination." To interpret, therefore, the exercise of the power by a presumption of the continuance of a State power, limiting and controlling the national authority, was but to deny its existence.

"Although it may be conceded," the Chief Justice said in the telephone case, "that there is some ground for contending, in view of the elements of authority exercised in the resolution of Congress, that there was power given to take less than the whole if the President deemed it best to do so, we are of the opinion that authority was conferred as to all the elements of the power, and that there was hence a right in the President to take complete possession and control to enable the full operation of the lines embraced in the authority."

That under its war power, Chief Justice White said in deciding the wire cases, "Congress possessed the right to confer upon the President the authority which it gave him, and which he has exercised, and which we think needs no further justification, as we have disposed of that subject in the North Dakota Railroad rate case. And the completeness of the war power under which the authority was exercised and by which completeness its exercise had to be tested suffices, we think, to dispose of the many other contentions urged as to the want of power in Congress to confer upon the President the authority which it gave him. The proposition that the President, in exercising the power, exceeded the authority given him, is based upon two considerations. First, because there was nothing in the conditions at the time the power was exercised which justified the calling into play of the authority; indeed, the contention goes further, and asserts the exercise of the power. But as the contention at best concerns not a want of power, but a mere excess or abuse of discretion in exercising a power given, it is clear that it involves considerations which are beyond the reach of judicial power. This must be, since, as this Court has often pointed out, the judicial may not invade the legislative or executive departments so as to correct alleged mistakes or wrongs arising from asserted abuse of discretion.

Opposition Based on Error.

The second contention, although it apparently rests upon assertion that there was an absence of power in the President to exert that authority to the extent to which he did exert it, when it is understood amounts to only an asserted limitation on the power granted, based upon a plain misconception of the terms of the resolution of Congress by which the power was given. In other words, it assumed that the resolution only a limited power as to the telephone lines was conferred upon the President, and hence, that the assumption by him of complete possession and control was beyond the authority possessed. But although it may be conceded that there is some ground for contending, in view of the elements of authority enumerated in the resolution of Congress, that there was power given to take less than the whole if the President deemed it best to do so, we are of opinion that authority was conferred as to all the enumerated elements and that there was a right in the President to take complete possession and control to enable the full operation of the lines embraced in the authority.

Power of State Only Derivative. "Inherently the power of state to fix rates to be charged for intra-state carriage or transmission is, in its nature, but derivative," the opinion adds, "since it arises from and depends upon, duty of those engaged in intra-state commerce to charge only reasonable rates for the services by them rendered, and the authority possessed by the state to exact compliance with that duty. Conceding that it was within the power of Congress, subject to constitutional limitations, to transplant the state power as to intra-state rates into a sphere where it, Congress, had complete control over telephone lines because it had taken possession of them and was operating them as a

UNCLE IS KILLED AIDING NIECE AGAINST HUSBAND

Takes Part of Woman in Family Quarrel Over Belated Supper.

Frank Babalato, 822 Carr street, who disappeared last night following the killing of Angelo Porcelli, 32 years old, a boilermaker, 1103 North Seventh street, at the Babalato home, is being sought today by the police. Policemen were informed that Babalato is related by marriage to the Vivianos, at whose spaghetti factory, Seventh and Carr streets, he was employed. The killing of Porcelli is said to have resulted from his efforts to act as peacemaker when Babalato and the latter's wife quarreled.

Babalato, policemen were told, scolded his wife because she did not have his supper ready when he returned from work. She went to her father's saloon at Seventh and Carr streets and told her uncle, Porcelli, who accompanied her to her home. When Porcelli upbraided Babalato, the latter, according to Mrs. Babalato's story to the police, seized one of two pistols he kept in the house and fired at Porcelli.

Porcelli was shot in the back, arm, hand and leg. He was dead when policemen arrived. Babalato took his revolver with him, his wife said. She stated that she and her husband had frequently quarreled.

COURT'S DECISION UPHELD WIRE AND RAIL RATES

governmental agency, it must follow that in such sphere there would be nothing upon which the state power could be exerted except upon the power of the United States, that is, its authority to fix rates for the services which it was rendering through its governmental agencies.

"A brief consideration of the contentions relied upon to the contrary," the opinion added, "will at once show the mistaken premises upon which they rest."

"Besides the presumption in question denied the power exerted in the adoption of the statute and displaced it by an imaginary hypothesis and dominant presumption, which arose by operation of the Constitution as an inevitable effect of the adoption of the statute, as shown by the following:

(a) The complete and undivided character of the power of the United States is not disputable. On the face of the statutes it is manifest that they were in terms based upon the war power, since the authority they gave arose only because of the existence of war and the right to exert such authority was to cease upon the war's termination. To interpret, therefore, the exercise of the power by a presumption of the continuance of a state power, limiting and controlling the national authority, was but to deny its existence.

"(b) The elementary principle that under the Constitution the authority of the Government of the United States is paramount when exerted as to subjects concerning which it has the power to control, is indisputable. This being true, it results that although authority to regulate within a given sphere may exist in both the United States and in the states, when the former calls into play constitutional authority within such general sphere, the necessary effect of doing so is that, to the extent that any conflict arises, the state power is limited, since in case of conflict that which is paramount necessarily controls that which is subordinate.

"Interpretation Would Deny Power.
"Again, as the power which was exerted was supreme, to interpret it upon the basis that its exercise must be presumed to be limited, was to deny the power itself."
"Thus, while admitting that the power which was conferred to initiate rates, when considered in and of itself, included all rates, it is nevertheless said that such power must be presumed to be limited to the only character of rates which, under the prior law, the Interstate Commerce Commission had the power to consider, that is, interstate rates, because the new rates when initiated, were to be acted upon by that body. As, however, the statute in terms, gives power to the Interstate Commerce Commission to consider the new rates in the light of the new and unified control which it creates, the error in the contention becomes manifest, even putting out of view the fact that, by the effect of the duty imposed, and the new control created, the new rates applying to the new conditions were within the power which the Interstate Commerce Commission previously possessed.

"The relief afforded against the officer of the United States proceeded upon the basis that it was exerting a power not conferred by the statute, to the detriment of the rights and duties of the state authority and was subject therefore to be restrained by state power within the limits of the statute."

Members of Congress regarded the opinions with interest and declared the court's views would aid them greatly in formulating wire and railroad legislation. The Senate Interstate Commerce Commission met yesterday to consider the resolution of Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, 30, expects to report favorably today providing for the repeal of the act under which the wires were taken back of the wire systems.

MAN SHOT SILENT AS TO HOW IT HAPPENED

Andrew Heidinger Tells Police He Doesn't Know When, How or Where He Was Wounded.

Police, called to the home of Andrew Heidinger, 26 years old, a laborer, at 603 Hickory street, today at 2 a. m., found him shot through the abdomen and apparently in a critical condition, but could obtain no information as to the circumstances under which the wound was inflicted. Heidinger told them he did not know when, how or where he had been shot.

Mrs. Agnes Heidinger, 26, his wife, said that her husband left home at 7 o'clock last night, saying he was going for a walk. She waited for him until midnight, she said, and then retired. She was awakened, she said, at 2 a. m. by a pounding on the door. Upon opening it her husband staggered in and fell to the floor, she said. He could not explain to her, he said, how he had been shot.

Police, called to the home of Heidinger, found him shot through the abdomen and apparently in a critical condition, but could obtain no information as to the circumstances under which the wound was inflicted.

They asked Heidinger who had shot him.

"I don't know," he replied. They asked him where the shooting had occurred.

"I don't know," he replied.

Physicians at the city hospital gave the opinion that the wound would be fatal.

OVER 750 WOMEN VOLUNTEER FOR 'BOY SCOUTS WEEK' DRIVE

Mass Meeting to Be Held Tomorrow Preliminary to Campaign Here for $115,000 Fund.

Every organization and individual in St. Louis who has been served in any way by the St. Louis Boy Scouts will have an opportunity of showing appreciation of such service next week, which has been designated through proclamation by President Wilson as "Boy Scouts week." There will be an inspirational mass meeting for women at the Central Library, Fourteenth and Olive streets, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Over 750 women have already volunteered their services for the drive for $115,000, which includes their quota, 11,500 members, of the 1,000,000 national associate membership campaign. Clarence H. Howard is chairman of the Citizens' Committee, Frank B. Peckham chairman of the men's division and Mrs. Louis J. Brooks chairman of the women's division. E. S. Wooley, Louisville, Ky., will be campaign director under the supervision of Maj. H. H. Simmons, Scout Commissioner of St. Louis.

At the inspirational mass meeting a troop of Boy Scouts will give a demonstration of practical scouting, and show just what the boy is taught through the scout movement, and why every one of the 20,000 boys in St. Louis who are of available age should be in the scout movement.

Among the division chairmen are Mrs. Charles C. Allen, Willard Bartlett, W. H. Hudson, Alex. Goodwin, Joseph Chaffee, Lou Sanders, A. A. Tucker, H. E. Truex, Abe Mayer, F. H. Keck, Fanny Bomer Price, Henry Wolfner, W. Westmann and Miss Belle Devlin.

Armenian Film Still Running. "Auction of Souls," a film drama based on the persecutions of Armenians by the Turks is still being featured on the bill at the New Grand Central Theater. In yesterday's Home Edition of the Post-Dispatch it was stated it probably would be replaced by another picture. At the time of this publication the withdrawal of the picture because of its strong realism was under consideration. Manager Sievers today said the showing of the picture would be continued and that in advance of any change of program he would make an official announcement.

U. S. OVERSEAS FLYERS DISCUSS HAWKER'S FEAT

Unite in Praising His "Sporting Spirit," but Back Our Naval Flights for Utility.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LISBON, May 28 (Delayed).—"Is it true that Hawker and Grieve are safe?" This was Lieutenant-Commander Read's first question on debarking from the NC-4 at Lisbon. When he had been reassured, he said:

"Since I first heard the news of their flight on my arrival at the Azores I have been divided between admiring the courage and sporting spirit they showed and blaming them for risking their lives on so foolhardy an adventure, for no one knew better than they that if compelled to come down for any one of a thousand reasons they could not, even under the most favorable sea conditions, save their planes as for themselves—it was a long shot."

"When you consider that we saw only two vessels between Newfoundland and the Azores, outside of our destroyers, you can see what extraordinary luck they had. Flying based on luck is admirable, but it does not advance the science of flying."

Value of U. S. Flight.
Commander Towers, who was about to leave for Plymouth on the Rochester, made this comment on the Hawker flight:

"Hawker took a sporting chance and we took the least possible. Like the whole world, of course, I was thrilled by his sportsmanship and I felt terrible when it was first reported that he was lost. Fortunately those two brave men have been saved, but, another time I hope they go into the new air navigation, with an eye to the practical results, for even if Hawker had arrived in Ireland it would have proved only that he was a great flyer, with wonderful luck."

"Read came across more slowly, conveyed and watched over by half the American navy, but he, as well as Bellingier, and I, could have crossed as safely anywhere on sea planes, if it had not been for the weather conditions for which we were not prepared and against which we must be prepared next time. We learned of new difficulties to be overcome and proved we could make flights through changes of air not known before."

"Proved New Things."
Lieutenant-Commander Bellingier, who had listened to what Commander Towers said today, added:

"Read's flight is not only a record but it proved new things. If Hawker had arrived it would rather have made our preparations look like over-caution and skyrockets from the destroyers made flying like riding down a line of posts. But Hawker did not arrive and Read did."

"At the present state of development unconvoyed seaplanes cannot safely cross the Atlantic, but the things we learned trying shifts we line of necessary development, lifting from a running sea—determining exact position without alighting, and so on. Hawker's daring in chancing the transatlantic flight is unforgettable, but Read, arriving tranquilly, preparing his report as he approached the shore of Portugal is more important, scientifically."

TWO ARMENIAN RELIEF BONDS SOLD BEFORE CAMPAIGN OPENS

One for $1000 Taken by the W. H. Danforth. Another for $5 by an Unidentified Working Man.

Although the campaign of the Armenian and Syrian Relief Committee to sell $300,000 worth of bonds in St. Louis did not begin until today, two bonds were sold yesterday, one for $1000 and the other, a $5 bond, to a working man who refused to give his name. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Danforth, 17 Kingsbury place, were the purchasers of the larger bond. This is the second donation of that amount received from Danforth in the past month for this cause.

District captains and workers to the number of 50 gathered at the committee headquarters, 312 North Eighth street, at 11:15 this morning to receive instructions preparatory to opening the campaign with a rush tomorrow morning. ## AFFIRMS JUDGMENT FOR $10,000

Court Rules M. A. C. Building Did Not Have Proper Fire Escapes.

A judgment for $10,000 damages against the Boatmen's Bank upon the allegation that it did not provide proper fire escapes on its building occupied by the Missouri Athletic Association, which was destroyed by fire on April 9, 1914, was affirmed yesterday by the Missouri Supreme Court in favor of Esther Lenore Ranus of Mount Vernon, N. Y., because of the death of her father, Arthur T. Ranus, in the fire.
The bank's defense was that it had no knowledge of the uses made of the building by the association. The opinion written by Judge Bond declares that the building was used as a dormitory for 11 years. Ranus, who was sleeping on the fifth floor, was in St. Louis organizing a fire insurance company.

How Fat Folks Reduce Weight

Many are Losing Several Pounds a Month

Fat persons, particularly those from ten to sixty pounds above normal weight, will be interested to learn that they may reduce their weight without starvation diet or tireless exercise. This can best be done by getting plenty of fresh air, by breathing deeply and by taking a few drops of oil of korein four times a day, following the other simple rules that come with the box.

Oil of korein may be obtained from any good druggist in capsule form. Even a few days' treatment is likely to show a pleasing reduction in weight. The step becomes lighter, the flesh more firm, the skin smoother in appearance; work seems easier and a more buoyant feeling takes possession of the whole body and mind as superfluous, unhealthy fat disappears.

If you are overstout and have tried various methods of fat reduction, vain you may now be very thankful at having found a genuine system. It is safe, pleasant and healthful.—ADV.

LENINE SAID TO WANT HELP OF MENSHEVIKI

Realizes He Has Not Accomplished What He Expected, Says Returning Hungarian.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BUDA PEST, via Paris, May 22.—Jeno, a Hungarian printer sent to Russia by the Hungarian Red Cross to care for Hungarian prisoners in Russia, has just returned from that country.

"Russia," he said, "has sunk to the depths of despair. I was there three and a half months, passing most of my time in Moscow, but also visiting Kiev and other places. Leaving Hungary at the time of the fight between the Social Democrats and Communists, I expected to see nothing but disorder in Russia and hence was surprised to find things orderly and calm if not pleasant. In Moscow I talked with Herr Martini of the Danish Red Cross. The British and French owe a great deal to him for his relief work among the prisoners formerly held in the camp at Bou-touka. I also dined with an American, whose name I cannot recall, who was chiefly occupied with purchasing Repine's paintings.

Army Well Disciplined.

"The Bolsheviks have a perfectly disciplined army held together by fear of the death penalty. This punishment is inflicted for the slightest offense, such as theft or drunkenness. The cases are decided by a court of several soldiers and there are many executions. The army is not directed by confidence men but by well-trained officers organized in an officers' corps. There are some international regiments composed of Germans, Hungarians, Letts and Chinese. Some of the Chinese are clothed in red and fight like beasts when told to do so. Most of the international regiments are the elite troops of the red army.

"It must be said that lack of food and the prevailing misery have forced the foreigners to go into the army and not love of communism. These regiments are now being demobilized partly because the Russians have enough recruits and partly because the foreign soldiers are tired of war and wish to return home. The size of the red army which the Bolsheviks desire can be judged by Lenin's poster asking for 100,000 old officers to train recruits.

The reports of the number of prisoners in Russia have been greatly exaggerated. I do not believe there are more than 80,000, including the Chinese who are given opium and cigarettes. The army is well equipped with new harness, saddles and other furnishings. I saw the entry of the red army into Kiev, from which a great many people had fled expecting a slaughter. The troops looked very well. They had a Maxim gun for every three men and some French artillery captured at Tarnopol.

"The newspapers are pretty well muzzled. There are three papers in Moscow—the Ivestia, the official organ; the Pravda, Lenin's personal mouthpiece, and the Kresensy, the army paper. There are few factories running and these consist almost entirely of munitions plants and money presses. Of the 300 textile works around Moscow only about 25 per cent are working. The employees recognize no authority and though they are nominally in the shops eight hours they really work much less time than that. They work regardless of age as a factor.

"Perhaps the biggest mistake was in not allowing free trade. Practically all the shops are closed and hence as the amount of goods does not equal the coupons the remainder is to be had only through 'sly trade' or smuggling. Outside of Moscow is a place called Sucharewka, where daily one can see fully 60,000 people buying from the 'sly' traders. From these one can get everything from a mouse trap to a piano but the prices are just about double the Government maximum prices. From time to time troops surround the market and herd the buyers and sellers into the nearest barracks where all the goods are confiscated but the next day sees the same sellers back in the market, the only difference being that the price of shoes, for example, is 3200 rubles ($640) instead of 600 rubles ($300.)

Moscow Dead and Miserable.

"I had always heard of Moscow as a city of light and gaiety. I found it dead and miserable. The lines before the soup kitchens contain thousands of people and not hundreds as in Vienna and here. For eating there is nothing but cabbage and barley. I tried to eat in the restaurants but could get little. I was fortunate enough to get food from the Danish Red Cross mission. Here are some of the prices: Bread, Government, price 1 ruble 30 kopeks (65 cents a pound); real price, 40 rubles ($20). Shoes, Government price, $115; real price, $500 to $700. A glass of milk, Government price, $1; real price, $6. A theater ticket costs $20.

"Lack of food and soap and the dirty conditions have resulted in epidemics. At one time 240 persons died daily in Moscow of typhoid. Warmer weather will stop this epidemic, but Prof. Tarsjels believes that a cholera epidemic is imminent in Moscow. The bourgeois are supposed to clean the streets, but by the look of things they are making a bad job of it. For Moscow is piled high with heaps of dirt with snow on top hiding the street cars from view. The former manager of a big factory lost his job and after figuring out how long his cash would last he joined a fire brigade. Most of the bourgeois have acted in a similar way.

"Gen. Davidoff said he had always been a good soldier and could not do anything else. He is now at the head of a military school for the soviet. Gen. Kellerman is also in the service of the soviet. I saw another well-known General still dressed in his uniform and wearing his decorations pulling a cartload of wood through the streets. The churches are still open, but in a railroad station I saw many priests with frocks and long beards acting as porters. The position of the aristocracy is very hard. The men are waiters and the women have become servants or go from house to house begging for food.

Jews Buying Real Estate.

"As the Russians on the whole are uneducated the Government welcomes intelligent men and thus many aristocrats and bourgeois have found employment. The Jews are looking for the return of the old regime and are speculating in real estate, buying up titles to houses of former owners. Whole blocks have been bought up in this way because the former owners are in need. However, money has little value. The peasants and all those possessing land are against the system and refuse to give up food except in exchange for goods. A pair of shoes will buy up a wagon load of food. It must be remembered that the peasants got the land through the revolution.

Soldiers Get $425 and Food.

"The red soldiers receive $50 rubles ($425) a month with food. An attempt was made to print Austrian crowns but failed, and I am certain that no foreign money has been printed in Russia. Lenin seems to feel that his ideas have not accomplished the expected and he is said to be brooding over it. He appears to be somewhat opposed to Leon Trotsky, who is at the front all the time and obsessed with the idea of dictatorship. Lenin, I understand, favors an approach between labor and capital and wants the support of the mensheviks or Social Democrats. Perhaps the mass of the people will turn to Lenin. It might mean a movement toward the fulfillment of the engagements with the Entente.

"There are now four political parties in Russia, but only the Bolshevik organization is in power since the leaders of all the others are in jail. The parties are as follows:

1. Bolsheviks, made up of workmen in large factories and peasants without land.
2. The extreme left. This is the old terrorist party, and as it is small, it is without much influence.
3. The right revolutionists. This is made up of the big mass of the peasants who want land, but no communism.
4. Mensheviks, skilled workmen, doctors, educated men and railroad workers who wish an approach between labor and capital.

"The present situation seems intolerable. However, one cannot say that the Russians are disgusted with communism, but rather with the prevalent conditions. Marriages and divorces are performed by civil employees of the government and cost 10 rubles ($20). A divorce costs six rubles ($3) and a divorce 20 rubles ($10). Either party can return the day following the marriage and obtain a divorce.

"During the first four months of 1919 the Post-Dispatch printed 25,543 letters to 'Wartime' more than its three nearest competitors combined.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisided coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisided coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—ADV.

DEAR FOLKS:

BUSINESS took me to Scranton, Pa., during the week of May 12-17, and while there I was fortunate in meeting forty-seven men who represent the IRON DIVISION of Wilson and Company—managers and salesmen. It was during this week that the people of the Keystone State bubbled over with enthusiasm and a wonderful welcome to the men of the IRON DIVISION of PENNSYLVANIA who had returned from France, after having performed in magnificent fashion at a great sacrifice of life, but showing that indomitable courage and will power, which are attributes of the men of rugged character and physique that the hills of Northern Pennsylvania raise.

I wouldn't have missed this unexpected meeting of these forty-seven men for anything. Here, for my knowledge of the Wilson and Company organization has been confined largely to personal contact with the rank and file of workers in the Chicago and New York plants. It had not been my pleasure to meet sales representatives in a convention of their own. This convention of the managers of branches and salesmen of Wilson and Company in the Northeastern District of Pennsylvania, had been planned to discuss ways and means to better promote the sale of the Wilson Certified food products such as the smoked meats, boiled hams, sausage and canned fruits, vegetables and meats. It was my privilege to sit in their meeting and I am very glad I had the opportunity, because these men have got it in their souls to promote the interests of their Chief, Thomas E. Wilson, who has put intelligence and integrity into food products, something that has given his name and his products a reputation which permits his sales organizations in all sections of the country to sell Wilson Certified Brands under their good name and quality, without necessitating salesmen to carry samples.

I heard a new phrase used by one of the branch managers that I think is a "corker," and I am passing it along to you because you will appreciate what it means for an organization to be backed up by men who are as proud of its achievements in food productions as if they owned the business themselves.

This is what he said: "I wish it great, boys, to be associated with an organization in which our CONFIDENCE IS CERTIFIED to as great an extent as the certified products which we have the pleasure of selling? You can't beat this, boys, can you?" Did you ever hear before the expression "Certified Confidence?" Do you appreciate what it means? How many friends have you got on your list in whom you have "certified confidence?"

Answering that question for yourself, you know what it means when I tell you that this Northeastern Division of Pennsylvania branch workers and salesmen, as well as the other divisions of salesmen in all sections of the country HAVE "Certified Confidence" in Thomas E. Wilson and his food products. The Chairman of the meeting made these remarks:

"With the splendid backing that our salespeople are getting from Mr. Wilson and his family of executives and his associate workers in the various plants, we must pull together and see to it that Wilson products may be found on sale on the shelves of every food merchant in our territory. Wilson products must be liberally distributed among dealers so that the consumer will have no difficulty in buying them. We must develop and cultivate the trade of the small dealer. We must not overlook the fact that the small dealer is the large dealer of next year. Banded together as we are no power on earth can hold us back from making a place for our Company and ourselves in the business world. We know that the policy of the business is sound to the core and the fact that our motto 'The Wilson Label Protects Your Table' insures a square deal for all, there is no reason why dealers everywhere should not carry a full line of Wilson and Company products, thus enabling us to establish a wonderful chain of dealers handling Certified foods from one end of the country to the other, and through these dealers establishing a splendid relationship between the consumers and our organization. We have confidence in our Company and in its methods—we have confidence in ourselves and with these three fundamentals we cannot fail to build a business that will endure in honor and service forever."

The general consensus of opinion among the forty-seven representing the IRON DIVISION of Wilson and Company in Northeastern Pennsylvania, is that it is an honor to be on the Wilson and Company payroll, and that it gives them an opportunity to satisfy their own ambition in life. They say that they like to be identified with an organization which stands for idealism and CERTIFIED PRACTICE in business.

One man, in speaking of Wilson and Company's Certified Boiled Hams, said: "Boys, if we have any difficulty in persuading any dealer to buy Wilson and Company's Certified Boiled Hams from us, it's our own fault. Why, do you know that we made a recent test of how this ham cuts up and we discovered that there was only one ounce of waste in the whole ham. We not only certify as to quality, but we certify to economy in use."

The pride that Wilson and Company workers feel in their organization hasn't a chance on earth of ever having a fall because it is too genuine and too deep rooted and so entirely justified.

Sincerely yours, William C. Friesman,

Best Indirectly Kills Three in Chi-cago.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 3.—Three deaths indirectly due to the heat were re-ported here yesterday. Joseph Werb, 57 years old, insurance agent, died in his office of heart disease, supposed-ly superinduced by heat. Jacob Kosz, 58, fell dead as he greeted his son who returned from overseas. Ex-citement and the heat were said to have been the cause. Anthony Bugas, 54, sought relief from the hot weather on an upper porch. He leaned against a railing and was killed when it gave way.

With the exception of the $200 contributed by the Post-Dispatch it-self to start the fund, this is the largest single contribution received so far in the Victory year campaign. An interesting contribution is that of Mr. Ben Colman of Nogales, Ariz., who sent his check for $10 to the fund through the Marquette Hotel cashier, stating that he wished to aid "the wonderful cause."

John S. Hoffman of 4424 Laclede avenue enclosed $1 and writes: "In the service of our Master, giving does not impoverish us, neither does with-holding enrich us."

NEW YORK, June 2.—Declaring that the "buzzards of the world are gathered at Paris," Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia, returned delegate of the "Irish race in America" to the peace conference, last night sound-ed a call to the millions of Irish-men in the country to "educate our fellow Americans" to the "dangers" of the United States "binding herself to England in the league of nations."

Ryan was addressing a meeting here of the Victory Fund Committee of the friends of Irish freedom. He had returned ahead of Frank P. Walsh and former Gov. Edward F. ## AUTOISTS UPSET CHERRY WAGON

Driver Jumps on Running Board, but Passengers Push Him Off.
Edward Gereau, 61 years old, a farmer of Florissant, Mo., was driving to market with a wagon load of early cherries at 1 a. m. today, when, in front of 5572 Easton avenue, an automobile containing two men com-ing from behind hit and overturned the wagon and spilled the cherries and Gereau in the street. Gereau emerged from the wreckage and climbed aboard the auto as it started to speed away. At Burd avenue, a black away, the men in the machine pushed him off the running board into the street. He was cut and bruised in this second mishap.

A witness took the license num-ber of the machine and "on the strength of this evidence the police at 3 a. m. arrested at his home, Wal-ter Schlesinger, 3925 North Twen-tieth street, to whom the license was issued. Schlesinger said he had not been out in his machine all night. He gave bond immediately. The cherries were damaged $25 and the wagon to the same extent.

ESPIONAGE AND DRAFT APPEALS FROM ST. LOUIS TO BE HEARD

Vance J. Higgs, special assistant to the Attorney-General, is in St. Louis today prepared to argue for the Government the first appeals to be heard in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals taken from convictions under the espionage and selective service acts in this district.

The espionage case is that of Wil-liam P. Elmer, Republican State committeeman of Dent County and candidate at the last election for State Representative, who unsuccessfully contested the seat of his Democratic opponent. He was fined $1000 by Federal Judge Munger, sit-ting for Judge Dyer. The other case is that of Arno August Kreibich, who was indicted on several counts of making false affidavit to evade con-scription. He pleaded guilty to one count, which alleged that he swore falsely in stating that his mother, father and sister were dependent upon him. Judge Dyer sentenced him to six months in jail at St. Charles.

Kreibich's counsel, Chester Krum, who also represents Elmer, appealed his case on the theory that while Kreibich admitted the act charged the law is not constitutional and con-sequently there should have been no punishment meted. These are the at this session of the United States only St. Louis cases set for hearing Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis.

Jobs for Soldiers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
While in France I read that St. Louis was one of the most patriotic cities in the United States. I myself felt that it was until I was discharged from the army. I never felt so proud in all my life as when I marched through the streets of St. Louis with the 138th Infantry and the pretty girls strewed flowers in our path when we marched through the Court of Honor. But alas! When I returned to St. Louis after being discharged and applied for a position I changed my mind. Every place I went to I received the same story. "We are sorry, but our force is complete at present." I then registered at the Soldiers and Sailors' Bureau and after waiting a week I was forced to accept a position with a reduction of $60 per month of my original salary. At the time of enlisting the 138th Infantry agreed to be maintained to save these patriotic business men from the Hun. The Soldiers and Sailors' Bureau is doing wonderful work, but they must have the co-operation of the business people of St. Louis or they can't exist. You can't imagine how it feels to be honored, cheered, kissed, and everything that came with it that particular day, and then to return here in less than a week from then and be treated worse than before the war when applying for a position. It was not our fault that we have been unemployed for two years, but it seems that this is a black mark against your business record to have served over in France, lying in the mud and rain with sometimes nothing to eat, and not only have a chance to die naturally but be killed and maimed for life just to save these same men, their wives and children from the inhuman treatment that the French and Belgian people went through. The feeling we now have when talking to these men is that in their minds they are saying, "Why, you d—n fool, you didn't have to go if you didn't want to." Did it ever come to your mind that the lads that died on the battlefield are looking down from the heavens and saying, "So this is the thanks we might have received?" I want to impress upon you that we are not looking for something free, but just a fifty-fifty break. Don't make Bolsheviks out of these lads, and remember if this condition continues to exist you are breeding Bolshevism.
It would not be a bad idea to call a meeting of all the business men of St. Louis and discuss this matter and then we can see who really are patriots. Don't just wait until a man's store or office and see a nice service flag in the window and say that man will take care of the boys. Personally, I would suggest these flags be taken down, because they have served long enough as the best advertisement anyone can have. Please, for the sake of the lads, do something so they can start all over in life and make good citizens out of them.

Marines in Haiti Homicide.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
All the talk about bringing the soldiers home from Europe has caused the people to forget that Uncle Sam has 15000 marines in Haiti.

It was declared to be impossible to keep American soldiers in Mexico, but the United States has been doing duty in Haiti nearly four years. And now these marines that are on the island want to come home. They are the worst home-sick soldiers in all the world. They are fed to it. The Haiti marines were brought to light by a party of Senators and Representatives who visited the island last month. The marines begged them to request Secretary Daniels to have them sent home. Work along that line is now being done.

Representative C. F. Reavis of Oklahoma was one of the party who toured Haiti. Speaking of the marines over there, he said: "Those boys are so homesick it touches one to talk with them. They are as good as shut off from the rest of the world. They have no newspapers, no movies, no theaters, none of the ordinary amusements. They are surrounded by an uncivilized, barbaric race. Is it any wonder that they want to get back home? When we went among them they begged us to talk about home, nothing else. No soldier should be forced to stay in the tropics more than a year. We are asking that these boys who have been there so long be brought back home."

It is probably necessary to maintain a force there to insure peace and order, but these marines so long on duty in Haiti ought to be replaced. It is understood the matter will be brought to the attention of Congress.

We are now out in the hills trying to suppress the outlaws or Cacos as they are known. We are having quite a time of it but as usual the marines have taken care of everything that comes their way.

THE BOMBING CRIMES.

The bombing of the homes of Attorney-General Palmer and other public officials and of business men following the sending of deadly bombs through the mails last month leaves no doubt that there is a working conspiracy of anarchists to maintain a reign of terrorism for revolutionary purposes.

Fortunately, the bombs in both cases failed of their objectives, but the conspiracy and its intent are disclosed.

The anarchistic handbill found in the suit case near Attorney-General Palmer's home, where the bomber apparently was killed by his own bomb, exposes the character of the conspiracy. It justifies assassination in the name of liberty and invokes the cause of labor for the defense of murder. It designates the conspiracy of destruction and assassination a war for freedom and the rights of man.

We do not doubt the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of American working men on this issue. They will repudiate any program of assassination and destruction with horror. They will denounce the murderous conspiracy as alien to America and its free institutions and detestable to Americans, who have in their hands the power by ballot and legal process to right all wrongs and insure justice and liberty for all elements of the people.

There is no doubt of the response of the American people as a whole to this revolutionary program and murderous appeal. They will repudiate and denounce it.

The attitude of the American people, however, does not fully meet the issue raised by the bombers. It is a criminal issue. It must be met officially by legal process. As our laws assure freedom of action and equality under the law to all the people, they assure also protection from lawless violence to all the people.

The bombing program is not revolution, it is crime and must be dealt with as crime. It is murder and destruction of property. The first duty of the authorities is to discover the assassins and their fellow conspirators and bring them to justice. The answer to the attack on law and order, free government is the enforcement of law. The prompt trial and punishment of the men who commit and attempt such crimes will do more to vindicate republican government and root out murderous anarchism than volumes of denunciation.

We must meet lawlessness and crime in any guise with the might and majesty of law. The prisoner's dock is the place for "anarchist fighters" who deal in murder.

THE REED ISSUE.

Do the Democratic leaders of Missouri think that they have disposed of the issue of the League of Nations and Senator Reed's opposition to it when they endorsed President Wilson and the League and urged the United States Senate to ratify the peace treaty with the League covenant?

These leaders say that the League of Nations ought not to be a party question, yet they denounce Republican opponents of the League and carefully refrain from saying a word about their own Senator, who is more bitter and extreme in his opposition than any other man in the Senate. Why do the Missouri Democrats denounce Republican opposition, but keep silent on opponents in their own party? If this is not partisanship, what is?

The Missouri Democrats cannot carry water on both shoulders. They cannot fool the people. They must declare themselves on one side or the other, fully and unreservedly. They must "hew to the line." They cannot win the fight for the League of Nations with soft nits. They must hit out. Anything else is rank cowardice. Senator Robinson of Arkansas has the right idea about the fight. The people must speak their sentiments. They must demand that the Senate do what is right.

What is the answer to Senator Reed's statement that on any vote on the question of the League of Nations would be overwhelmingly defeated in Missouri? Not only the endorsement of the League, but the repudiation of Senator Reed—that is the answer. That settles the question of where the Democrats stand on the League and how their Senator who opposes it stands in Missouri.

The Reed issue is not settled by silence. It is emphasized. Silence paralyzes the Democratic party. It destroys the influence of Democratic leadership. Silence on Senator Reed's opposition merely proves that the Democratic leaders lack the courage of their convictions and are unfit for leadership. How can they expect public confidence when they dodge their duty in the greatest issue of modern times—an issue in which the welfare of America and the welfare of mankind is bound up—an issue on which the Democratic President has staked everything?

Voa Tirpitz has shaved off his whiskers. He must be trying to look human.

LOG OF THE AERIAL COLUMBUS

Lieutenant-Commander Albert C. Read's account of his flight from Lisbon to Plymouth and his review of earlier stages of the voyage from Rockaway to Fayal completed in Monday night's Post-Dispatch a series of remarkable narratives on the mastery of the air reaches between the two shores of the Atlantic.

The story of the great endeavor by each of the three Navy craft has been told by its chief officer. Lieutenant-Commander Patrick N. L. Bellinger took Post-Dispatch readers with him in the NC-1 and brought them into close association with the details of the long night flight across the heavens and the shipwreck, followed by a thrilling rescue. Commander J. A. Towers contrasted the kindness of the air with the hostility of the ocean and described his 205-mile struggle through raging waters to port—a feat unprecedented in plane rescue. To the final story by Mr. Read a special interest attached, as he was the victor in the competition and master of the only craft that accomplished what three set out to do.

The ordinary press reports of the great undertaking were fragmentary and often confusing. The narratives of the three officers gave a connected, graphic account of what happened. The incidents in each story differed widely from those in the other two, for each Navy boat had adventures in which the other did not share. These narratives were not prepared as official reports to superior officers or to the department. They were prepared as reports to the reading public, to be presented through the Post-Dispatch.

As the log of the squadron conveying and accompanying the Columbus of the air we may believe these narratives will have a large historical value in the future.

A NEW KIND OF STRIKE IN GERMANY.

LOTHROP STODDARD in the World's Work for June.

ONE of the most interesting developments in the present world-unrest is the middle-class "counter-strike" movement in Germany. The movement began in some cities of northwestern Germany which had fallen under Spartacist (i. e., social revolutionist) control. The Spartacists, of course, adopted drastic measures against the bourgeoisie, enforcing their will by violence where their control was complete, and by paralyzing "general strikes" where their hold was less sure. But the oppressed bourgeoisie presently took the "class-solidarity" leaf cut of the Spartacists' book. The first overt move was made by the amalgamated doctors, nurses, hospital attendants, pharmacists and kindred callings connected with the public health. These now declared a general counter-strike, and sick proletarians could thereafter obtain neither drugs nor medical attendance, while proletarian patients were left unattended in their hospital beds. The Spartacists voiced great indignation, asserting that the strikers were neglecting their bounden duty to preserve life and health, but the strikers retorted that public life and health were no more endangered by their action than by the "general strikes" of the Spartacists, and in at least two cities the medical strikers won the victory.

These successes have inspired more general bourgeois amalgamations, professional men and shopkeepers having displayed a particularly keen sense of class-solidarity and organizing ability for strike action.

NO USE, GENTLEMEN.

From the Boston Post.

Certain of the unreconstructed hostiles to the President of the United States down at Washington have a little idea which they are hoping may be made to work, if the need arises. It is that, if the Senate dares to block the peace of the world by refusing to ratify the allied treaty with Germany, and the war keeps on, as it would so far as the United States is concerned, Congress can "order" all United States troops to withdraw from foreign soil.

It is a neat scheme and it sounds almost plausible—until there looms up against it the figure of the Constitution of the United States. For there is no question whatever—and Republicans have been the last to question it in the past—that the Constitution means just what it says when it states that "the President shall be Commander in Chief of the army and navy of the United States."

Congress could "order" the President to do this, that and the other thing with regard to his command until the cows come home, but it would be futile. Not an officer in either army or navy would pay the slightest attention to such stuff against the constitutional orders of the Commander in Chief.

No use, gentlemen; this little scheme is unworkable. Congress tried it in Lincoln's time, but "flunked" on it most dismally.

TO THE SPIRIT OF WAIT WHITMAN.

I AM Walt Whitman come back from a hundred years.
A bug, long winged and bodied, is on my paper as I write.
Upon my pen he crawls, on my hand, 'Up my arm, my neck, upon my beard—I gently lift him off and back he comes.

Again he crawls, crosses my lips and falls—
Why? Who knows?
I have let him have his way and he is gone.

The silence of the canyon is profound.
Yet, there are a thousand million voices there—
As I sit in deafness, I hear within.

The spider's silk line reaches from one tree to another tree,
Twenty feet or more and glistens in the sun—
I would be a spider—to know a spider's wonders.

My soul swells and heaves but cannot speak—
Great soul, be free—you are of God.

I think of home, of life, of seconds—
And express a prayer.

My man companion lies upon the grass.
His book and he together.
"Companion, what know you of me?"
He knows not that my spirit speaks.
He is but one and I another—
And all is the world and of God.

Another bug has eaten of my flesh—
Why not? I killed a chicken but yesterday.
And an unborn chicken I shall eat to-morrow—
But my spirit is life and would let all live.

The my flesh, as flesh, is weak.

My wood-cutter saws and splits,
And thinks I pay him not enough—
If all that man pays in gold is all that he receives.

Four man, enough he'll never know—
Only the spirit can fulfill.

Time lingers not—another second and all is changed—
Yet time and spirit are not of change.

Material evolves, grows, changes—
Time and spirit are the same and always.

Back in my cabin,
I watch the mother cat with six kittens.
The little ones scamper and whirl about,
(After their own tails, like men).
Their bright eyes so full of wonder,
And now, one at each tip.
The mother is giving of her life to her young.

And my cow is giving of her life to me and to my companion and to others—
All and each must give of our life to all and each.

Such is the Holy Spirit.

My comrade is full of anger at me—
When man is angry at another.

Poor fool, he is but angry with himself.

But come, Walt Whitman, come converse with me.
So well I feel and see, and know the song you sing.
Of the never-ending wonders of Life.

Would you like to look into the mind of Col. George Harvey and see it turn backward? Read this:
PROFIT AND LOSS IN PEACE MAKING.
From Harvey's Weekly.

It is not possible to compute with substantial accuracy the profit and loss of the diplomacy in which the President has been unjustifiably engaged for the last six months. The balance sheet runs substantially as follows:

GREAT BRITAIN WINS:
Guaranteed and undiminished control of the seas.
Virtual control of the League of Nations, with six votes to the one of the United States or any other Power.
The major part of the former German colonies.
Confirmed possession of Egypt.
Greatly increased influence in the East.
Reparation for injuries and losses to civilians.

FRANCE WINS:
Alsace-Lorraine.
The Saar Valley.
A barrier all along the Rhine against another German attack.
Reparation for injuries and losses to civilians.

BELGIUM WINS:
Additional territory.
Restored independence.
Reparation for her injuries and losses in the war.

ITALY WINS:
Restoration of Italian Irredenta.
Security for her Alpine frontier.
Control of the Adriatic Sea.
Reparation for injuries and losses in the war.

JAPAN WINS:
Former German islands in the Pacific.
Control of China.
Increased influence in Asiatic Russia.

WOODROW WILSON WINS:
A place in history as the founder of the League of Nations, which threatens his country with undoing.

THE UNITED STATES LOSSES:
Her independence and sovereignty.
The friendship of Italy, Japan and China.
The power of self-defense.
Self-determination of the size of her army and navy.
The right to make treaties at will.
The right to mind only her own business.

It was nice to see Harry Hawker try to pick up the beans after spilling them the way he did.

Supreme Test of Wilson Diplomacy Declared in Washington to Be Near

Correspondent Says German Counter Proposals, Appealing to His Own Views, Add to An Already Complicated Situation.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Germany argues for a modification of peace terms and hands back to the United States some of President Wilson's own arguments before the days when he began yielding to others in the Council of Four. Cabled dispatches from Paris say the allies are seriously considering making concessions, and so far as the United States is concerned expressions of dissatisfaction with both the terms of the treaty and the covenant of the league of nations continues to reach members of the Senate.
Peace-making is not to be done as hastily as the advocates of make-a-treaty-first-and-talk-about-a-league-of-nations-afterward policy would have it, and Washington today isn't a bit more sure of the time when peace is to come to the world than it was on the day some of the allies began insisting that their own national interest must supersede the general interest. For fear of being called pro-German, many persons in official life in Washington hesitated as much as people outside of Washington have hesitated to point out the mistakes made in the Versailles treaty. Even members of the Senate, who want to see the treaty amended admit they may have to face such an outcry.

Liberal Views Developing.
Nevertheless the editorials and statements of Liberal publications both in the United States and Great Britain who have courageously exposed many of the weaknesses of the peace treaty are being closely read here, and many a man who hasn't quite made up his mind to come out in the open with his thoughts is nevertheless admitting that if peace is to be established in Europe, if wounds are to be healed and the world is to try to settle its disputes peacefully hereafter, a bad start has been made in Paris.

This is only natural in circles where the Wilson philosophy was closely followed. If the President, for example, believed two months ago that it was unnecessary to give France political control of the Saar Basin after the coal products there had been assured to France, many of his friends here think he must believe the same thing today and that his acquiescence in the French point of view cannot have been anything else but a measure of expediency on his part in the hope of preventing a break among the allies.

Germany's Financial Limit.
The same is true of the economic arrangements and the attitude of the Allies toward Germany. The Allies include men not for a minute to be accused of sympathy with Germany because they have themselves been among their chief proponents of the allied cause, before the United States entered the war. These financial experts say Germany cannot pay more than 25,000,000,000 of marks and they can't agree with any of the provisions for the collection of the indemnity.

It is not a sentimental, but a practical point of view they have, based on a desire to see Europe reconstructed. It was the peace of vengeance as opposed to the peace of justice which split the allies, and now that President Wilson yielded on so many points and lost the support of many liberals in Europe and America, both Premier Clemenceau and Premier Lloyd George are warning Mr. Wilson wasn't right in the first place.

Few people in Washington believe Germany has been too severely dealt with. Nobody is arguing the question of just deserts, but many people are wondering if the statement in Paris really thinking armies can be kept in Europe indefinitely to impose the terms of peace when a consideration of many points would bring about an acceptance by the German Government which would not need military force to sustain.

It is hardly believed that the allies will go to the point of forcing Germany to accept the treaty at Versailles and at the same time exclude her from membership in the league of nations. If the provisions in the Versailles treaty are necessary and are just, will the allies deny Germany a voice in the council of nations to secure correction of those terms should future experience demonstrate that the German people must turn to Bolshevism as their salvation?

Differing Points of View.
The American delegation to the peace conference, according to cable dispatches, favors including Germany in the league of nations so that the German people can have an opportunity to ask for revision from time to time, and say that the allies, in accordance as Germany seems to be acting in good faith are considering changes.

But if the door is shut now against future discussion and French troops are kept in the Saar Basin, and a plebiscite is held 15 years from now, or propaganda and newspapers and political control has been exercised by the Germans say the allies might as well call it annexation, for it will amount to the same thing in the end.

President Wilson thought the allies had promised the liberal and radical elements of Europe that a peace without annexations would be made, and argued against tainting the cause of democracy with territorial acquisition. He yielded nevertheless to the French claim, and now he is in the position of agreeing with the German argument or openly confessing that he surrendered his convictions to the French point of view.

His own Possible Verdict.
Mr. Wilson's followers in the national capital see, therefore, new dilemmas in the German reply asking for modification of the peace treaty. If the President cares about the verdict of future historians, the records will show that the Germans turned back on Mr. Wilson his own words. Two things are going to happen, therefore; either the allies will say to Germany that the peace of Versailles is complete by necessity, by a lack of faith in German promises, and that admission to the league is the only concession that can be made at present, or else the allies, including the President, are going to stand firm on the provisions of the treaty and league of nations and force it down the German throat.

The supreme test of Mr. Wilson's diplomacy is close at hand. Liberal opinion in America has been denouncing the President for failing to condemn the shantung proposals and to stand by China as against Japan; Italians in the United States are on the fence about the peace treaty. All they know what is done about Fiume; the Jews are not overenthusiastic about a peace treaty that sets up a Government in Poland which denies religious liberty and sanctions pogroms; some critics of a league of nations believe America is entangling herself too much in European affairs, and altogether the elements of opposition to the treaty and league are tending to increase.

Question of Party Issue.
This fact is recognized in Washington by friends of the President, and instead of being back here during the month of June to defend his work in Paris, the impression seems to prevail that Mr. Wilson will not be back for another month or so. Many Senate Republicans want to make a party issue of the whole business. Democrats say they would welcome it. Disappointment in other countries with the peace treaty is growing. The United States Senate may not be the only body anxious to amend.

There is evidence that the Council of Four is taking cognizance of the opposition. Mr. Wilson is reported to be moving for reconsideration of many parts of the treaty. The national capital is out of touch with Mr. Wilson, but his quick-and-thin supporters are worried looks.

If the President must surrender his convictions, they would be better satisfied if he would resort to open diplomacy, as he did in the Italian controversy, and let the people decide the world. They do not think it is too late. Either the treaty will be amended in Paris now on a basis that makes a reconstructed Europe and peace for all the peoples of the world, or the treaty will be rejected, and the world will be plunged into another war.

Mr. Wilson saw much merit in the league and the peace treaty together so that the league would have to be ratified, but the situation now is changing so that many elements in our population who do not like the peace treaty are telling the President they are not much interested in a league of nations that merely perpetuates the rule of the victors and not establish a family of nations wherein may be heard the voices of both the victor and the vanquished.

FILIPINOS READY TO SET UP GOVERNMENT WITHIN 60 DAYS

Delegation Tells Senate Joint Committee They Have No Fear of Aggression If Given Independence

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Further appeals for Philippine independence were made today to a joint committee of Congress by members of the delegation sent here from Manila to set forth the claims of the Filipino people for independence. Manuel Queson, President of the Philippine Senate and chief spokesman for the delegation, told the committee yesterday that the Filipinos, in urgent action by Congress, were willing to take their chances against the possibility of enemy aggression by seeking membership in the league of nations, and if given their independence would come when the United States should permit the dominant party to set up a Government which would have the support of the entire people.

It was pointed out by speakers that even if the league should not be finally ratified, the plea for immediate independence would be urged. The delegation said they regarded only lightly the fact that some day the islands might be seized, and that both political and economic independence would be permitted when the United States should permit the dominant party to set up a Government which would have the support of the entire people.

Hornsby, Out of Position, Hands Contest to Reds

Shortstop, Playing Third, Misses Easy Grounder With a Double Play in Sight.

LAVAN GETS INTO GAME

Former Brown and National in First N. L. Battle Handles 10 Chances Cleanly.

With Gene Paulette suffering from an injured knee, Manager Branch Ricks was forced to switch his lineup for the first contest with the Reds yesterday, and the change was responsible for the Cardinals' defeat at the hands of the Moran aggregation yesterday, 7-4. It was an error by an athlete switched from his regular place with an easy double play in sight at home, brought over what proved the winning marley.

Dr. John Lavan, late of the United States navy and Washington, was inserted at short, and played a nice game, accepting 10 chances without a miss. Rogers Hornsby moved over to third, Stock to second and Capt. Jack Miller worked at first.

Everything went along lovely until the eighth, with this switched aggregation. And then things started to happen. With the score tied and the bases full, Rogers Hornsby fumbled a rap from Cuto to that was straight into his glove, with the result that Roush scored and the bases were still full.

Elmer Lanning handled the ball cleanly, Roush would have been out down at the plate, and the chances are that Cuto would have been nailed at first. This was a huge given a tie score instead of a two-run lead for the Reds.

The eighth round was a master one for the Reds. Nine men batted, six reached first, four scored and two went out sacrifice flies. Here's how it all happened.

Rath and Neale singled, while the base runners moved up when Phil Neale threw into right trying to pick Neale off first. Cuto's long throw killed Rath. Here May replaced Meadows. Roush singled, scoring Neale. Kopf also singled. That ended May and Ames came in. Dasher was purposely passed. Then came the aforementioned play by Hornsby which enabled Roush to score. Meadows brought in Kopf. The Reds also had three stolen bases in this round.

Stock Bats in Run.
This one round decided the issue and showed that if Ricks intends to keep the lineup he used yesterday, the men will need a good deal of practice in their new positions to get well acquainted.

Milton Stock was the batting hero for the Knotters. In the third he drove over Meadows and Shotton with a single, while he sent in the same pair with a clout in the fifth.

Prior to the Reds' big inning they counted one on a double steal by Eller and Neale in the third and a double and Eller's hit in the fifth. To make it safe, another came in the ninth on two singles and a sacrifice.

Salles In Down to Hurt.
Manager Pat Moran of the Reds stated yesterday that Harry Salles, former Cardinal and Giant, would be used on hurling hill today. He will likely draw Marvin Goodwin, his opponent.

Cards Turn Great Play.
One of the prettiest double plays the Cardinals have turned this season came in the second, when with men on first and third, Cuto hit to Lavan, and Kopf's catch between first and home. He was run down Lavan to Dillhoefer to Hornsby, while Dasher, trying to beat third, also was touched out by Hornsby.

Small Crowd on Hand.
Only a small crowd turned out for yesterday's contest, the attendance numbering about 750.

Browns Must Win Today.
The Browns must win today from the Indians today to stay ahead of the Tigers. If both clubs win, the standings will be Browns .516, Tigers .515. However, if each loses, the marks will be Browns .484, Tigers .482.

County Five Which Made Great Record This Spring

With records of eight victories and two defeats each, the Webster and Kirkwood High Schools completed the Girls' County Basketball League season, tied for first honors.

The Kirkwood girls have scored 423 points in their 10 games, an average of over 40 points per game. The star player of the team was Phyllis Tatman, forward, who scored 372 of the points. Miss Tatman has captained the team for three years. With Cara Byars, forward; Elizabeth Burdick, jumping center; and Eloise Saunders, guard, the team played well.

Willard's Healthy Condition Makes Great Impression

Toledo Critics Surprised at Size and Fine Appearance of the Champion.

By Robert Edgren

Copyright, 1919, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World.)

TOLEDO, O., June 3.—Jesse Willard will begin his training here this afternoon. Yesterday workmen were busy putting up an open-air ring at the Casino under the champion's direction.

It is the kind of a ring Willard usually insists upon having at his training quarters, a double roped ring with solid platform, and well padded floor. Jesse spent most of the day with Tex Rickard. The big fellow attracts a world of attention wherever he goes.

He wears a neat light-weight gray suit, belted at the waist, and looks long and lean and broad shouldered. He is a good natured fellow and his cheerfulness gives him a healthy tan, and took off whatever fat he may have had before the match was made.

Dempsey had made such a tremendous impression on the local and visiting sportsmen that until Willard arrived the challenger was looked upon as almost "sure-thing" favorite. Since Willard appeared his great height, round bulk and his cheerfulness have had the effect of Dempsey's daily slum-bum training work. Everyone is waiting now to see if Jesse looks as good in action as he does on the street.

Dempsey put one of his hardest days yesterday. At 8 in the morning he boxed 12 furious rounds with his whole staff of sparring partners. He ripped into big Bill Tate relentlessly as Bill had taken a day of rest on Sunday.

Dempsey is fond of thinking that Bill Tate is a dusky double for Willard. He is no less in height, weight, reach, skill and hitting power. Tate says he is 6 feet 5 and weighs 235 pounds. Dempsey tears into him as if he had Willard in the ring and clever as he is, the big black Sergeant does well to hold his own. Yesterday Dempsey's big fight as hard over the heart that there was some suspicion of broken ribs. It proved to be groundless, but Willard felt so that he asked for a short vacation.

Dempsey to Take a Rest.
Dempsey has decided that he won't box again until Saturday. He is almost on edge, and his trainers say there is no sense in letting him box every day in the present spell of weather. There is too much danger of over-exercising him.

He will box three days next week and then take another rest. Only the last week will see heavy boxing over the heart. Dempsey's Manager Kearns' decision on this point gave great joy to a battered lot of Dempsey's hired hands.

Jack and the sparring partners intend to have four days of fishing this week. Dempsey is living at his training quarters on the lake shore. Willard will use his quarters only for training. He has rented a cottage to live in and intends to buy a big 12-cylinder car to which him back and forth.

References by the Regiment.
The lot is filling with "gents" who are perfectly willing to refer to Dempsey as "the champion." They stand around Rickard in platoons, regarding each other with suspicion and button-holing perfect strangers to impress the incontrovertible logic of their candidature. Tex could not swing a cat by the tail without bowling over half a dozen of them.

One of the latest is Bar Nelson. Bar explains that his well-known qualities of honesty and fearlessness make him the logical candidate, as this may be a tough one to give a decision on and neither of the contestants wants any of the worst of the lot. The news sharpens up on Rickard's trail know at a glance whether the envelope got as reference appeal for grandstandees to erect a thousand dollar check and a request for seats for the ring.

The seat sale is sitting anything of the sort ever known before. A list of the thousands of prominent Americans who have already applied for reserved seats would astonish even followers of boxing. There are many of the highest officials of the nation, judges whose names are known everywhere; there are even preachers who want to see the fight.

MRS. BARLOW TURNS IN 88 SCORE IN GOLF EVENT
Rye, N. Y., June 3.—The women's Eastern golf championship tournament opened yesterday with 60 players participating in the first 18 holes of the qualifying round at the Links of the Apawamis Country Club. Mrs. Barlow of Philadelphia, who won the title three times, made the low score of 88. Mrs. W. A. Gavin, Baltusrol, present title holder, took 92.

Other low scores were: Mrs. L. C. Stockton, Raritan Valley, 92; Mrs. H. Vanderbeck, Philadelphia, 92; Mrs. H. C. Stetson, Philadelphia, 92.

Loughlin Beats Celmar.
Knockout Loughlin of South Bethlehem defeated Johnny Celmar of Toledo at Tulsa last night in a 16-round bout. Loughlin is to meet Jack Britton in Tulsa on July 4 for the welterweight title.

St. Louis Giants Win.
The St. Louis Giants, a crack negro baseball nine of this city, defeated the National A. C. an out-of-town club, yesterday afternoon, 14-3. This is five under par. The last game, the Giants' hurler, gave his opponents seven safeties. The Giants are scheduled to play the Decatur Black Sox next week at Decatur, Ill.

Schlamp Is Victor.
In the progressive three-cushion billiard tournament yesterday at Peterson's in which 29 players took part, six were tied for first place. Schlamp won from Bourne in the playoff, 10-1, the winner making a high run of six. The next tournament begins Thursday afternoon at 2:30 sharp.

WRAY'S COLUMN

We'll Make 'Em Travel, Bo.

OUTSIDE of Missouri championships and one victory in the Trans-Mississippi, St. Louis golfers have not yet forced the world to howl the knee of homage to them by their title performances. None of our amateurs has caused any tumult among the ranks of National or even Western tournament entrants.

In fact, few St. Louisians ever have taken part in Western G. A. events, and only one player, if memory serves rightly, reached the second match play round in a national championship—Stuart Stickney, who lost a whale of a contest on that occasion to Fred Herreshoff.

In the old days St. Louis usually had only two or three players ranking among the four handicap men; but they seldom played that well when in fast company.

Big Improvement, Locally.
SINCE then St. Louis golfers have come forward. Stickney is the only one of the old guard still holding his own. In recent times Chris Kenney, Clarence Wolff, Eddie Limberg, Roger Lord, Jimmy Manion and Frank Lynch have come forward. Today they are all going nicely. Stickney, Kenney and Wolff are in exceptional form. Playing on courses with which they are thoroughly familiar it is almost a certainty that one of the players will win the Trans-Mississippi and that one or more of them will come well down to the later rounds of the Western. If misfortunes of the draw do not bring them in early opposition to the strong, they are other proven opponents of title class.

Even then, playing under the distinct advantage gained by a thorough knowledge of the course, it is no certainty that there will not be a shock in store for the visitors. The Sunset course, for example, will require of all golfers considerably more stamina than any other they have played. Its hills are obesity killers and wind devils for the strong; they are a denunciation for a bad physical condition—in a tournament sense, that is.

Watch for the "Dark Horse."
KENNEY, Stickney and Wolff are all used to the physical hurdles. Wolff's playing of Sunset Hicks—his best score was 88—warrants the hope that some surprise may come from this quarter. The city champion is "on his game." If his average performance over Sunset courses recently can be repeated in the tournament he will be a semi-finalist. The same might be said of Stickney and Kenney.

Barnes to Bring Jack Title.
JIM BARNES, of Newton, Mass., tonight for W. national open to "bring back" Barnes is playing championship. In form, now, that in such a manner, last is not boastful, his half-jesting, justifiable confidence at all national professional and Western open.

Best. Barnes will return immediately after the tent to look after the Sunset course for the Western championship.

MILLERS RELEASE MILAN SEATTLE GETS THOMAS
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 3.—Outfielder Horace Milan, who was obtained from Washington before the season opened, was sold to Des Moines of the Western League by Minneapolis. Milwaukee's Manager Kearns' decision on this point gave great joy to a battered lot of Dempsey's hired hands.

Jack and the sparring partners intend to have four days of fishing this week. Dempsey is living at his training quarters on the lake shore. Willard will use his quarters only for training. He has rented a cottage to live in and intends to buy a big 12-cylinder car to which him back and forth.

Indians Corrt Sacrifice Into Tie Play

Long Fly, but Sialer Scores on Are Run Two Other Bases.

O., June 3.—A CLEVELAND Indians featured triple play, a 3 victory over St. Louis at the Park, yesterday afternoon.

St. Louis' second and Sloan on fourth, a sacrifice fly to first, a scored Sialer. Chapman Wood's throw to the pitcher, then trapped Jacobson between infield and third. While the big out-scoring was being run down, Sloan fielded second and was tagged by Wamby. The chase of Jacobson resumed and Wamby tagged "as well."

Jack's throw was another play that had even greater joy to the Cleveland fans than the unusual at of pulling off a triple play. In the eighth inning Wayne Wright, St. Louis' relief pitcher, was advised to pass O'Neill so as to get at George Uhle, there being a runner on the sacks with two out. Manager Jimmie Burke evidently thought that as a batter Uhle was a good pitcher. The sand-lotter had the laugh on the Browns' Board of Strategy, for he tripled to deep left center. That hit cinched the contest and gave Uhle an edge upon which to work in the ninth.

Heet Overcomes Covetous.
During the early part of the contest the Indians fielded recklessly, making five errors before they settled down. But before the settling down process was adopted Covetous had retired from the box, having been somewhat overcome by the heat.

Uhle Is Browns' Jinx.
Yesterday's victory was the third that George Uhle has taken down this year and also the third he has won from St. Louis, his two defeats being at the hands of the White Sox.

Davenport in Poor Form.
Big Dave Davenport was lucky that the Indians did not knock him from the box earlier than they did, but a pair of double plays helped him out at right situations while one behind Wright stopped an Indian rally in the sixth.

Doubleheader Today.
The first doubleheader of the year for Cleveland will be played this afternoon, the first game starting at 2. Lee Fohl will use Charley Jamieson in one of the contests, but is not sure whom he will pick for the other. Wellman and either Gailor or Rothorn will pitch for St. Louis.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

DISGRACED.

My teacher says to me today
So's all the class could hear:
"I thank you for that nice bouquet
You brought this morning, dear."
Of course she'd made a bad mistake.
Somebody'd thought they'd be Almighty smart if they could make
A teacher's pet of me.

I licked three fellers at recess,
They'll hold their tongues, I'll bet.
But forty-seven girls, I guess,
Yelled at me: "Teacher's pet!"
I grabbed a couple by the hair
But had to let 'em go
Before they even got a scare,
You can't lick girls, you know.

An' when we went inside again
The kids would grin an' say:
"Who's teacher little dear?" an' then
They'd point to that bouquet.
An' then in whispers they'd repeat
The words the teacher said
While I just sat there in my seat
And wished that I was dead!

I'm goin' to ask my folks to go
And live some other place
Where all the kids I see won't know
About this here disgrace.
If I could run away to war
Then maybe I'd forget,
But I can't stick 'round here no more
And be a teacher's pet!
